

Search Is Still On For Jet

Probe Reservoir For Main Parts

Search for one of the two F-105-D Thunderchief supersonic jet fighters which met disaster May 2 over the Ashokan Reservoir, was continued today by a crew of Navy divers.

They probed the reservoir waters at a spot where witnesses reportedly saw the plane plunge into the water.

Meanwhile, parts of both planes, which were recovered in the intense search following the crash were loaded onto two U. S. Air Force trucks and awaited arrival of authorities for transportation to Republic Aviation Corporation at Farmingdale, L. I., where they will be studied in an effort to determine what caused the tragedy.

Navy Divers Take Over

The Navy divers came to the scene of the crash on Tuesday, replacing members of the Ulster County Skin Diving Club, who had attempted to locate the bulk of the missing wreckage of the second plane.

An area in the lower or East Basin of the reservoir is the scene of current operations. Witnesses, who have been questioned in an effort to determine what happened, have indicated that a large portion of the plane in which Test Pilot Donald Seaver, 37, of Fort Walton Beach, Fla., met his death, plummeted into the reservoir.

60 Feet of Water

Department of Water Supply officials estimate a depth of 60 feet in the area where the jet wreckage reportedly went into the water. Spring rains and melting snow have caused the waters to become considerably turbid, they said, and at a depth of 25 feet visibility is limited to a few feet. Powerful flood lights are being utilized, but visibility remains extremely limited, officials said.

The other plane in which Jack Bader, 42, of Massapequa, L. I., like Seaver a test pilot for Republic Aviation, met his death at Spillway near West Hurley, was removed from the scene on Wednesday by Army personnel and will be examined at Republic's Long Island plant.

Officials said the pilots were conducting tests of the supersonic jets when the planes came in close contact and either collided or one or both of the crafts exploded.

More parts of the wreckage and portion of an airman's uniform and equipment were found over the weekend in wide areas near Atwood, The Vly and Peak Road in the towns of Rochester and Marletown.

County Investigator Thomas Mayone and two Republic representatives combed the area Sunday and said numerous parts of wreckage were found. They said portions of a wing, tail assembly and other parts were located on the Wilbur property on Peak Road.

Raft Is Found

A portion of the uniform of one of the test pilots, together with a part of a helmet and rubber raft carried on the planes for emergency water landing, were also found in that area. Other parts were found near the Cross Lumber Company at Kysler. A wheel was found near Spillway Road and a portion of the landing gear and tail assembly. (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

Work Beginning Today to Remove Water Main Jam

Excavation began today by the water department to remove a pipe cleaning machine which became lodged in a 20-inch main May 2.

It was noted at a special meeting of the water board Thursday afternoon that the machine appears to be stuck on the city side of the Esopus Creek northwest of Manor Avenue, and the method of removal was approved by the board.

The department announced that the machine had jammed during cleaning operations at a point between the Sawkill road and the city. It interrupted some service.

'Routine Operation'

Efforts to dislodge it continued until late Thursday, May 2. They were resumed May 3 and 4 and again on May 8 and 9, said the statement released after Thursday's meeting, and it noted that "all possible methods were used to move the machine through the pipe line without success."

Cleaning of the conduit "has been a routine annual operation for almost 25 years, and up to this time has been done without incident. This, and all of the past cleaning operations have been supervised for the water department by the National Water Main Cleaning Company of Jersey City, N. J., who are recognized experts in this special- (Continued on Page 8, Col. 7)

DELIVERING PLANE WRECKAGE—Two Air Force trucks, loaded with parts of jet planes which crashed May 2 near Ashokan Reservoir, were parked today in Town of Marletown garage at Stone Ridge. They awaited arrival of military authorities for transportation of wreckage to Republic Aviation Corp. at Farmingdale, L. I., where parts will undergo study to determine cause of crash. Wreckage of one plane was recovered after crash, but Navy divers continued their search for more parts of second plane, believed somewhere in waters of reservoir. Parts of wreckage and pilot's uniform were located in towns of Rochester and Marletown in southern part of county. (Freeman photo)

Light Spraying For Gypsy Moths To Start Monday

A light application of DDT will be sprayed by low-flying aircraft beginning Monday over the western portions of Woodstock and Saugerties in a project of the State Conservation Department to rid the area of gypsy moths.

The five per cent DDT solution applied at approximately one gallon of solution to the acre will also curb the spread of tent caterpillars, mosquitoes and May flies, a department spokesman said.

Solution Not Harmful

The DDT in solution of the quantity used will not be harmful to birds, fish, animals or bees, he said.

The planes coming from Kingston Airport will be flying low over West Saugerties Mountain and small portions of Woodstock and Ulster, during the morning hours.

In the Town of Saugerties spraying will be along Route 212 from Glasco Turnpike north to West Saugerties and the entire West Saugerties Mountain to the Greene County line. Included in the operation will be isolated spots in the Shultis Corners, High Woods and Fish Creek areas.

In the Town of Woodstock the major spraying will be on a large (Continued on Page 6, Col. 2)

Free Speech Right Does Not Cover Scarecrow Protest

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Court of Appeals says the constitutional right of free speech does not give a man the right to hang old clothes and scarecrows in front of his home as a means of protesting property taxes.

The state's highest court upheld Thursday, in a 6-1 decision, the conviction of Dr. and Mrs. Webster Stover of Rye, and affirmed the legality of a local ordinance prohibiting the hanging of clothes in a front yard without a permit.

The court also upheld the state education commissioner's refusal to enter a dispute within the State University involving three professors.

Writing the majority opinion in the Stover case, Associate Judge Stanley H. Fuld contended that the ordinance, enacted after the Stovers began their unique protest, "caused no undue hardship to any property owner."

In a dissenting opinion, Associate Judge John Van Voorhis argued that "the right to be different has a place in this country."

Violation, They Claim

The Stovers had contended that the ordinance violated their constitutional right to free speech because the hanging of material on the clothesline was an expression of their protest against property taxes they considered too high.

Stover, former president of Arnold College, Bridgeport, Conn., was convicted of two violations of the ordinance in 1961. He was fined $25 the first time, and, on the second occasion, chose to serve a 30-day jail sentence rather than pay a $100 fine. His attorney obtained his release after 11 days, however, to await the outcome of his appeal.

Stover's wife, Marion, received suspended sentences.

In the State University case, the high court unanimously upheld a lower-court decision sustaining the refusal of Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr. to enter the dispute on the ground that he lacked jurisdiction.

The court rejected unanimously an appeal by three social science teachers who were refused contract renewals by the State University College on Long Island and who sought intervention by Allen.

Nikita Is Winner in China Deal

Delegation Going To Talk in Moscow

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP)—Premier Khrushchev has won a preliminary tactical skirmish in his ideological war with Communist China. The first peace talks will be held in Moscow, not in Peking as Communist chief Mao Tse-tung had hoped.

Chinese Premier Chou En-lai informed Soviet Ambassador S. V. Chervonenko Thursday that his government accepted Khrushchev's invitation to send a delegation to Moscow to discuss ideological differences splitting the Communist world.

China Holds Fast

Khrushchev had proposed that Mao head the Chinese delegation, but nobody expected the Chinese boss to agree to that. Chou said the delegation will be headed by Teng Hsiao-ping, top theoretician of the Chinese party, and Peng Chen, mayor of Peking.

Today, as if to dispel any illusion that Peking's "hard line" is weakening, the official Peking People's Daily published a long denunciation of Yugoslavia's new constitution.

Taking a scarcely-concealed slap at Khrushchev, who has accepted the Yugoslav Communists back in the fold as reformed sinners, Peking's mouthpiece said the constitution proves "that they were talking sheer nonsense who consider that the Tito group have shown some repentance and changed their wrong policy."

Making Hard Try

The Chinese appear trying to win as much support as possible from other Communist parties before the Moscow meeting. President Liu Shao-chi arrived in Hanoi today for his first visit to North Viet Nam, which only recently showed strong signs of siding with Peking.

Last month Liu visited Indonesia, and the big Communist party there seems to be orienting itself toward the Chinese position after initial wavering.

Peking holds that Khrushchev's policy of peaceful coexistence is an unacceptable revision of Marxism-Leninism, that war with the West still is inevitable and that even a nuclear war would be worthwhile because the Communists would be hurt less than the West.

Khrushchev contends that communism can and must win the world by peaceful means or means that won't produce a world conflict. He holds that a nuclear war would devastate both sides.

Water Rents Due

A water department reminder issued today notes that quarterly water rents are now due in the district composed of wards Three through Nine and the 13th Ward. Wednesday, May 15, is the final day for payment without penalty. The department's office in the city hall will be open from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. Monday and 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on other days.

Two Drivers Injured, Third Unhurt

Overtaken Trailers Block R209 for Hours

Two Pennsylvania truck drivers were injured and another escaped unhurt early today as the result of a collision on Route 209 about five miles south of Kingston near Stone Ridge, involving three loaded tractor-trailers that caused one of the worst traffic bottlenecks in the area in many years.

The trucks were carting rolled sheet steel and other material for an upstate project, possibly the Northway.

Two of the tractor-trailers involved in the crash overturned on the highway. Traffic was rerouted by State Police from Kingston and Ellenville substations through Route 213 to Route 32 for more than four hours. One-way traffic was maintained between 6 a. m. and noon, troopers said. Normal traffic was not expected until 2 or 3 p. m., authorities reported.

Another Over Bank

A fourth tractor-trailer, reported to have been in the northbound convoy with the other three, flipped over and down an embankment when a soft shoulder gave way. That vehicle was not involved in the collision.

State police listed the operators of the vehicles as: 1—Sam Walborn (Wolbrum) 25, of 107 North Chestnut Street, Palmyra, Pa., who was not injured.

2—Allen Schuck, 23, of 1804 Main Street, Slatedale, Pa., who was admitted to Kingston Hospital in fair condition. He suffered

Experts See Move Necessary

Mutual Aid System Explanation Given

At a meeting of the Ulster County Board of Supervisors Thursday night, which developed into a lengthy controversy over whether the board should adopt a resolution protesting the closing of the Highland State Police Station, the board was also told it should consider a County Planning Board or Agency.

The board unanimously adopted a County Fire Mutual Aid Plan and fixed the salary of the Ulster County Commissioner of Health at $17,000. Another important item of business was the authorization of the county superintendent of highways to study and prepare plans for a county bridge in the Town of Shawangunk at an estimated cost of $75,000.

Planner Present

Attending the meeting was George Raymond and Richard May of Raymond and May Associates, planning experts, who told the board members that Ulster County was the only county in the area which did not have a County Planning Board. The Hudson Valley in the Ulster County area is on the threshold of its greatest years, they said, and should be in a position to take advantage of industrial and development growth. They urged that Ulster County consider a planning board, discussed its advantages and its powers. If Ulster County names a County Planning Board and becomes a member of the Regional group, it could become eligible for federal and state assistance.

It was explained that a County Planning Board or Agency could only advise, but would be of great assistance in cooperating with local planning and Zoning Boards in an advisory capacity.

Plans carried out in other counties were referred to. It was suggested that while the County Board would not be salaried, it would be necessary to have a professional hired planning man to head up the program, together with assistants. A figure of about $35,000 a year was suggested as a probable cost.

The Board took no action on the matter.

Fire Coordinator Talks

Ulster County Fire Coordinator Winfred Snyder was present and spoke on the adoption of a County Mutual Aid Plan. There are 51 Fire Districts in the county and all but 14 of the districts had signed favoring the plan. Two of these have indicated they either will or have signed but not sent in their report.

County Coordinator Snyder said that if a fire district did not sign the plan petition, radio equipment must be removed from the district which fails to approve the plan after a 30 day notice. If a company owns its own radio equipment it will not be (Continued on Page 6, Col. 4)

Broughton, Police Stories Conflict On Rough Arrest

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An Albany church leaders insists — in conflict with the testimony of two city patrolmen — that he saw a policeman beat a Negro prisoner.

The testimony marked the opening day of a public hearing ordered by Mayor Erastus Corning II following protests against the arrest of the church leader, Russell H. Broughton, on a charge of interfering with a policeman making an arrest.

Broughton, a plant supervisor for the New York Telephone Co., a lay leader in the Methodist Church and a member of the board of the State Council of Churches, was again on the list of witnesses for the second day of the hearing today.

Broughton testified Thursday he saw a policeman beat a prisoner on a downtown street on the morning of April 9 while walking to work.

Booked on Charge

Broughton said he asked the policemen why they were "manhandling" the man and was arrested himself and booked at a police station. The charge later was dismissed.

But Patrolmen Richard J. O'Neill and John Cody testified that neither of them punched or struck the prisoner, William Washington, who was accused of (Continued on Page 8, Col. 1)

BABSON ON BUSINESS

By ROGER W. BABSON

BABSON DISCUSSES CUBA

BABSON PARK, Mass., May 10 — Although this week's column will be mailed from Babson Park, Mass. as usual, it is being written in Florida less than 300 miles from Cuba. Furthermore, Palm Beach — where some of the Kennedys have been staying much of the winter — is much closer to Cuba.

How Many Russians Left in Cuba?

No one really knows how many Russian soldiers, technicians, or officers still remain in Cuba. The estimates range from a low of about 2,000 to a high of 18,000. When these Russians leave Cuba they go in covered " wagons " and they are dressed in civilian clothes. They claim to have removed all "offensive weapons," but they admit to selling a large number to Castro which are classified as "defensive." These would be able to "blow up" areas in Florida, but not any large American cities elsewhere.

Our intelligence is trying to get the facts by photographs. This is in part a reason why certain camera company stocks sell at very much higher prices than they did in 1960. Although we own permanent rights in Guantanamo "on the southeast corner of Cuba, we are very careful to allow no one to pass the lines to enter or leave Guantanamo who has not a high character and reputation. It is rumored that Castro has dug a tunnel under Guantanamo, and threatens, in case of war, to blow it up.

What Russia Wants

Khrushchev will not allow Castro to destroy Cuba, as some Republicans are urging Mr. Kennedy to do. He knows that such an event could well start a world war. Furthermore, President Kennedy knows that the American people would much rather lose Cuba now than start World War 3. Consequently, Russia seems to be "sitting in the driver's seat" at present.

I further believe that Mr. Kennedy wants to go to the voters in 1964 under the slogan "I kept you out of war." I also believe that if any Republican candidate for the 1964 election urges that we now "clean up Cuba," he will surely be defeated. Another thing to remember is that the Cuban people are 90 per cent Catholic and that the Pope is working for a friendly settlement. The Pope probably has no influence in Russia; but he should have real influence in Cuba.

What About Central and South America?

Friends tell me that Castro will try both to placate Russia and also to entice the Communists of Venezuela, Columbia, and especially Brazil. All these and the other countries of Central and South America I have visited. In fact, the Babson Institute once had a branch in Guatemala. I owned a fine stone building which was destroyed by an earthquake. Fortunately, I was not there that night. If I had been I would have been killed.

I repeat that we will not get into a war with Russia over Cuba. On the other hand, I know the Latin American people, as I have indicated above. The trouble with these nations is that they have no "middle class"; they are either very rich or very poor; and whether rich or poor, they are temperamental. One sad fact is that the rich do not invest their money in their own country, but send it to Switzerland to be invested in high-grade stocks listed in New York or London.

All of the above means that it will be very difficult to help Cuba or any South or Central American countries. Russia knows this. President Kennedy also knows it; but does not know the real answer, which is one of the fundamental difficulties with the Cuban problem. Geographically Cuba is a wonderful base for Russia to have in the Western Hemisphere; but from a temperamental standpoint Russia knows that neither Castro nor any successor of Castro's can be depended upon. Hence, I believe President Kennedy is now right in keeping out of Cuba — directly or indirectly.

Local Artificial Breeders Annual Meeting, Dinner

Approximately 100 members, guests and friends of the Ulster County Artificial Breeding Cooperative, Inc., met at the S.R.S. Home recently for their 19th annual meeting and dinner. Ulster County Artificial Breeding Cooperative is an affiliate of the New York Artificial Breeders Cooperative which supplies dairy cattle semen to dairy breed units throughout New York State and Eastern Vermont.

A business meeting followed the dinner and was conducted by President R. V. O. DuBois of New Paltz. A report of the past year's financial operations showed some decline in total work completed in Ulster County and a slight operating loss for the local Cooperative for the year.

Aaron Bell, Accord; John Geiger, Ellenville, and Marvin Stoddard of Kerhonkson were elected directors for three-year terms. The names were presented by nominating committee chairman John Kaufman of Kingston. The speaker for the evening program was Robert Gregg of Red Hook, who represents the New York Artificial Breeders Cooperative in the sense that he is chairman of a special study committee for the group. He briefly outlined the success that he has had with his dairy herd on his farm in Red Hook. In a very practical and efficient manner he pointed out the results that have come to him through careful feeding and management of his herd. He also attributed a great deal of the success to continued production increases of the dairy herd to the use of N.Y.A.B.C. Sire Program. In commenting on the activities of his special study committee, Mr. Gregg also pointed out that proposed changes will be made to the central breeder's unit at Ithaca as well as to the local affiliates throughout the state.

Hurley Vols Vote To Host 12-County Fire Drill School

Hurley Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 will be hosts to the 12-county fire drill school for fire instructors this weekend, according to arrangements announced at the company's meeting this week.

Ulster County Fire Coordinator Winfred Snyder asked approval and assistance in accommodating fire department representatives of 12 counties for the sessions Saturday and Sunday from 8 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Includes Demonstrations
The classes will be conducted under the direction of the State Division of Fire Safety. The agenda will include actual equipment demonstrations and practice.

Meals for the estimated 120 instructors will be provided by the Ladies Auxiliary of Hurley Volunteer Fire Company.

Vice President Raymond Foisy presided at the meeting due to the absence of Charles Gobie, president. The membership approved active participation in the Hurley Memorial Day Parade and service, sponsored by the Hurley Grange; the Ulster County Volunteer Firemen's Association Convention parade in Saugerties, July 27; and Inspection Day, sponsored by Pioneer Engine Company of Ellenville, September 7. Committee chairman Charles Bouton said uniform orders would be accepted from all members who desired to participate.

Sparkys Get Charter
A report on "Sparky's Fire Department" was given by Richard Ruth Jr., in which he noted the youth group had received its national charter and that worldwide publicity would be carried in a future issue of Sparky's News.

Chief Kenneth Cudney reported four fires during April, a below average number. Fund Drive Chairman Foisy noted that good cooperation of all fireman had resulted in distribution of the coin-saver cards throughout the fire district. He asked the same cooperation in collecting the cards during August.

John Ryan spoke for the Parents Club of Hurley School. He made a plea for financial assistance for the Sixth Grade students of Hurley School, who are planning a three-day trip to the extensively restored colonial capital city of Williamsburg, Va. Hurley firemen responded as anticipated.

A movie, "Jet Trip to Europe," furnished by Greenwald's Travel Service, Inc., followed adjournment and refreshments.

Utility Stock Split
ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Jamestown Telephone Corp. won permission today from the Public Service Commission to make a three-for-one split of its common stock.

The company's 26,300 outstanding shares now are valued at $75 each. Three new shares, with a stated value of $25 apiece, will be issued for each outstanding share.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—With the second quarter near the halfway mark businessmen already are counting the first half of the year as safely in the plus column.

Most of the indicators they watch point to continued gains in coming weeks. Some businessmen even hope that the usual summer slowdown will be milder this year.

But vacations are spreading, both in length and in more industries. And even the nice backlog of unfilled orders probably won't stave off a mild dip in industrial output in July or August when entire plants close down.

One of the more reassuring signs that the economy is gaining strength is that the pickup in new industrial orders early this year was less for inventory building than assumed at the time. Most of the orders were filled for immediate consumption and stocks rose only moderately.

In the present quarter inventory building may be having a larger role in the economy. This is especially true where manufacturers seek to hedge against the possibility of a steel work stoppage in late summer. Steel union leaders are meeting next week to decide their policy on negotiating with the companies.

Hopes are still high that a settlement will be reached without a strike. But many steel consumers are ordering ahead anyway, to beat either a supply shortage if there's a work stoppage, or further steel price increases if wage costs go up again.

Even industries that were still squeezed in the early months of the year are now predicting that the second quarter will see good profit gains. Most steel companies have made such predictions. And some railroads that were still operating in the red in the first three months of the year are now saying that increased freight business guarantees black-ink book-keeping this quarter.

One indicator of things to come that has pleased businessmen is new hard goods orders. This went up sharply in the early months. Machine tool makers say the increase is continuing. Another indicator is the backlog of unfilled orders. This too has risen, if more slowly than the new orders themselves.

Large defense orders and shipments and other steadily rising government expenditures also guarantee busy months ahead for many companies.

Residential construction appears to be on the upgrade. Consumer spending in general has continued high, with auto sales a particularly bright spot.

A number of corporations have reported they intend to increase their spending soon for equipment and plant expansion, although actual construction hasn't picked up much as yet.

But all the favorable indicators add up just now to better business, higher employment totals, a faster rate of personal incomes, larger profits—and, of course, increased tax collections by the U.S. Treasury.

Strides in Stroke Prevention Seen As Encouraging

Can strokes, with their mental deterioration and physically crippling aftermaths, be prevented?

The answer from Dr. William T. Foley, nationally recognized authority on cardio-vascular disease, is very encouraging.

Addressed May Meeting
Dr. Foley, clinical associate professor of medicine at Cornell Medical College, told area physicians attending the May meeting of the Medical Society of the County of Ulster here this week that great strides have been made since the end of World War 2 in understanding and preventing strokes.

The break-through, he said, came in the late 1940's when the use of anti-coagulant drugs proved effective in preventing emboli or blood clot fragments from blocking the arteries of patients with rheumatic heart damage.

Anti-coagulants prevent the formation of clots in the blood vessels, and Dr. Foley told of many cases where stroke victims have recovered and lived on without further cerebral incidents when kept on a regular, carefully controlled schedule of anti-coagulant medication.

The New York Hospital specialist, who was called to Florida repeatedly to consult on the stroke treatment of former ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, noted that many fundamental concepts about the causes and treatment of strokes have been revised radically since the late 40's.

Explains New Theory
Before the war, he explained, medical authorities thought that brain arteries were incapable of developing new paths of blood circulation if occluded or blocked by clots. It has now been shown that the human body has the ability to develop new blood distribution lines to the brain if the patient survives the stroke.

Another encouraging factor, he mentioned, is that in 80 per cent of all strokes, there are previous warnings which develop step-by-step before a major cerebral incident occurs, thus providing time for diagnosis and preventive treatment.

Medical research has also resulted in a new understanding of the causes of strokes, he said. Recent investigation has shown that as much as 40 per cent of strokes may be attributed to emboli of blood clot fragments, another 40 per cent to hardening of two specific arteries supplying blood to the brain, and five per cent to hemorrhages resulting from high blood pressure and hardening of the arteries. This leaves only 15 per cent of strokes whose origins are as yet undetermined, and considerable research is being conducted in this area, he indicated.

Dr. Foley noted that diagnostic methods of determining the causes of strokes have also become more effective, thus providing the physician with better information on which to determine treatment. In the 40 per cent of strokes caused by emboli he may use anti-coagulant drug therapy, and may also use this method with proven results in the 20 per cent of cerebral incidents due to hardening of the basilar artery. Surgery restoration of the internal carotid artery, the cause of another 20 per cent of strokes, also has proven effective in numerous cases, he added.

While all strokes can't be prevented, he concluded, many can, and we can be encouraged by the tremendous achievements of the past 15 years toward this end.

Rockland College Engages Utica Man as President

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Seymour Eskow will resign as dean of instruction at the Mohawk Valley Community College in Utica to become president of the Rockland Community College at Suffern.

Eskow was appointed to the Rockland post by the State University Board of Trustees at its monthly meeting in New York City.

The action was announced Thursday by the University's office here.

The board also appointed Dr. Ben A. Suetz as acting president of the State University College at Cortland.

Eskow, 39, will take over the $18,000-a-year post on Sept. 1. He will succeed Dr. Frank K. Mosher, who is retiring.

Dr. Suetz, a member of the Cortland faculty for 25 years, will act as president until a permanent successor is chosen for Dr. Donovan C. Moffett, who died April 16.

$300,000 Grant

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Community Facilities Administration has announced a $300,000 grant to Jefferson County, N.Y., to finance half the cost of constructing a county office building in Watertown, N.Y.

The grant, announced Thursday, was made under the accelerated public works program.

Construction is expected to begin within 30 days.

Child Injured Fatally

ATHENS, Pa. (AP)—Connie Ess, 8, of Athens, was injured fatally Thursday when hit by an automobile as she walked along a country road about a mile east of this Bradford County community near the New York State border.

SHOKAN NEWS

SHOKAN — Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Currey, Margaretville, were among Delaware County residents calling in the hub of the reservoir country recently.

Emil Hozza, Whitefield antiques collector, was in town Saturday.

During two days of fishing the waters of the Esopus Creek, Billy Slicker reportedly caught a 22-inch rainbow trout and three 20-inch ones of the same breed, also an 18-inch German brown rainbow. The piscatorial feat is reminiscent of the big browns which George Siemon, Golden Van Benschoten and Albert E. Schoonmaker used to lift from the Esopus, upstream from the long bridge at Shokan. The big ones were there, years before the reservoir came along.

Peter Comtois, Flushing, L. I. young man was a Sunday caller in the village.

Bertha Matthews, 91, whose death in Kingston Monday was reported in The Freeman was well known to older readers who lived in the Town of Olive 50 years ago and more. She assisted in the post office and her father's general store which was diagonally across the West Shokan main street from the Ulster & Delaware Railroad depot. Miss Matthews on her mother's side was related to Dr. Isaac Dart, resident physician at Shokan in the 1870's.

Bertha Merrill, formerly a teacher in Olive schools for several years, is now making her home up at Walton.

Survivors of Darwin E. Faulkner, Halcott Center World War I veteran of four years service with the famed Rainbow Division, include a son, Earl Faulkner, Kingston. Mr. Faulkner, born Dec. 15, 1898, was son of Fred and Jennie Van Amberg Faulkner.

John Krein has moved here from Eddyville and is occupying a trailer in the village. Mr. Krein's son, Theodore, local war veteran, moved here from Phoenicia last year. His home is the former Aaron Mackey house on the reservoir road.

A town road is under construction at the new housing development on the one time Lewis Thiel acreage along the north side of Route 28 here.

Half a Century Ago: Spring of 1913—Real estate transfers in Olive include a property from Helen Haver to Harriet E. Lambert... Matthews & North shipped 25,000 shaved hoops in late April... Rupert Everett and family have moved back on the old place in the Coons neighborhood of Shokan... John Hoffman has vacated his residence and moved to the Charles Weidner main house near the Bushkill. Delancey Matthews has about closed out his store business of 42 years... He was formerly associated with James M. North, a Civil War veteran.

BOOKS ON CAREERS

The Kingston City Library has on display 39 books about careers, which will be of particular interest to high school students. The books circulate in the same manner as all the books in the library.

The Mid-Hudson Libraries has loaned "careers" to the Kingston City Library for six weeks. Anyone can avail himself of the material in these books. Some of the fields covered science, art, medicine, forestry, writing, nursing, theatre and military. Each of the 39 books covers a different subject and is geared to aid individuals in selecting a business life most suited and appealing to him.

The young people of Kingston are very fortunate to have access to this material and they should take advantage of this opportunity. Many of our young people need to be guided and assisted in choosing a way of life after graduating from high school. With an unlimited future, parents should encourage their children to plan now for their life's work.

THE RIGHT-WINGERS

Militant rightists in this country are not troubled over the argument that they constitute a very small minority of the voting population. They believe, with good reason, that they have a lot going for them.

From the past record, few could doubt that they have ample money resources.

But a rather startling prediction that right-wingers will spend more in 1964 than both major party national committees combined may cast the right-wing effort in a somewhat new light.

The forecast comes from Wesley McCune of Group Research, Inc., an agency that keeps tab on rightist activity.

It is notable, too, that right-wing money evidently is being spent these days with more concentrated effect than before. There are persistent reports that powerful assaults are being leveled against a number of moderate to liberal politicians in the Mountain states—where a dollar may go a long way.

Furthermore, the rightist movement is attracting more "prestige" leadership than ever in its history. Ezra Taft Benson, former secretary of agriculture under Dwight Eisenhower, leads an organization called "We, the People." Benson's son, Reed, is active in the John Birch Society in western areas. Retired generals and admirals are joining up in larger numbers.

Rightists often have been concerned over a public image given some of them as "freaks and oddities." In recent months they have managed more and more to dispel this image by gaining audiences among business and professional groups of long standing, farm bureaus, and the like.

Javits calls on the President to say if his hands are tied in Cuba by a secret agreement. Have you stopped beating your wife, Sir?

RISE IN AIR TRAVEL

The volume of passenger traffic on domestic airlines is substantially above last year's volume. As a result, earnings and revenue are higher than was expected for most of the trunk carriers.

This is good news, even though average revenue per passenger mile has been cut somewhat by low promotional fares. For though some of the airlines are in deep financial trouble that they are not likely to get out of in a hurry, the surge of passenger traffic is a promising development.

The increase may herald the turning of the worm so far as mass passenger attraction is concerned. For years the airlines have been trying to boost air travel with such come-ons as increasingly fancy meals, champagne flights and the like. Now there are indications of an effort to concentrate, instead, on getting lots of people from place to place in a hurry at reasonable rates.

Airline history suggests that there can be no one, simple solution for the economic ills of the commercial carriers. But focusing on the provision of swift, low-cost transportation without meaningless frills may be a big part of the answer.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

OUR HEADLESS FOREIGN AID HORSEMEN

In the Nineteenth Century in England they used to speak of "St. George's cavalry"—meaning money that was spent abroad to buy the allegiance of other nations or to stir up local rebellions that would benefit the British position in the world. The justification for using St. George's cavalry was that it kept Britain from having to fight wars directly. On the record the British used their monetary substitute for troops wisely. They defeated Napoleon with a very small commitment of British soldiers, and they kept out of large-scale wars for a century thereafter without visible loss of prestige, real estate or power.

Since World War II there have been many attempts to justify the U. S. Foreign Aid program as a Twentieth Century variant of the horsemen of St. George who used to ride for Britain. But the U. S. monetary horsemen seem to be headless. For instance, they have ridden in Cambodia since 1945 to the tune of $248.6 million in economic aid and $85.9 in military aid, making a total of $334.5 million. Surely that ought to be sufficient to earn a little gratitude, you might think. But the news from Cambodia is that this "neutralist" monarchy in southeast Asia has just signed a document pledging its support to the foreign policies, not of the U. S. and its allies, but of Red China. Included in the specifics of the agreement is Cambodian endorsement of the Red Chinese claim to Formosa.

In other parts of the world the American versions of St. George's horsemen have been galloping off in all directions and getting nowhere. There is Brazil, to which $1.9 billion has been sent in hopes that the nation might get its skyrocketing inflation under control and somehow pull the teeth of Communists who are trying to exploit the sufferings of landless peasants in the Brazilian northeast. If the deployment of our own St. George's cavalry serves to keep the largest nation in Latin America from going the way of Castro's Cuba, we can count our foreign aid to Brazil as being money well spent. But when Brazilian President Joao Goulart urges his own Leftist supporters to keep their eyes on what he does, not on what he says, it is obvious that promises may not always match performances in Brazil. The curious thing about our aid to Goulart's government is that it has been extended without any hint of real reciprocity. Brazil sells coffee and buys wheat, which would seem to set the stage for some sort of barter deal connected with our aid program. But we go on paying money for Brazilian coffee while Brazil takes wheat from Soviet Russia. This does not mean that our own St. George's cavalry has lost the Brazilian war, but it does indicate that it has been outfanked in a rather important battle.

Elsewhere in the world St. George's cavalry has ridden into cul de sacs. We have provided Haiti with $100 million in aid—and as this column is being written the fantastic Haitian dictator has just announced that he has already been re-elected President in an election that is scheduled for next week. Indonesia got $670 million—thumbed its nose at the West by grabbing Dutch New Guinea. Cuba got $52 million, and then, in accordance with Castro's idea of gratitude, grabbed $1 billion in U. S. property. India has had $3.9 billion, and is currently angling for funds to build a State-owned steel mill at Bokaro. The United States Steel Corporation has advised our government that the proposed steel mill, which would be built near coal and iron sources, would be practical, but private steel companies in India operate at costs approximately fifteen per cent below the costs of existing government mills, so why not lend the money to private Indian companies to expand?

Venezuela has had $274 million in U. S. aid—and in view of this oil-rich nation's proximity to the Panama Canal few Americans would begrudge a penny of the money. Even so, it is a little disconcerting to hear, from Cuban exile sources, that Khrushchev has promised Mao Tse-tung that when Venezuela is subverted by the Communists its relatively unpopulated savannas will be turned over to China to help solve the problem of where to put all those extra Red Chinese.

The idea of letting St. George's cavalry ride in place of flesh-and-blood U. S. troops was not inherently a poor idea. But we badly need a quia boni connection with certain departed British statesmen of the nineteenth century to learn how money should be deployed.

Crackling Joints—Noisy But No Cause for Worry

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—When my 12-year-old daughter twists her legs or bends her knees and ankles, they make a crackling noise. What causes this? What is the remedy?

A—The cause is either an irregularity in the facing surfaces of the joints or the snapping of a tendon as it slides over a bony protuberance. The condition is usually painless.

Ordinarily, the person whose joints are crackling can hear the noise, more plainly than others, because he feels the crackling as well as hears it, and he may be self-conscious about it.

There is no remedy for this condition. Since it is not a disease, none is needed. But persons whose joints crackle can often reduce the noise by avoiding sudden jerky movements. This is comparable to learning to eat raw celery without waking the sleeping dog in the next room.

Q—Every time I take an alcoholic drink my face, neck, and chest break out in red blotches. I do not drink very often or very much, but this is very embarrassing to me. What is the cause?

A—Alcohol in small doses may dilate the blood vessels in the skin and cause flushing. Some persons are more susceptible to this physiologic action of alcohol than others. You will either have to give up drinking or make up your mind that the flushing is nothing to worry about, and not give it a second thought.

Q—What do you think about the discovery that calories don't count? I would like to lose some weight, but I don't want to have to diet.

A—I think I know your counterpart. He would like to have $1 million but doesn't want to have to work for it.

CALORIES DO COUNT. You take the high-calorie road and I'll take the low-calorie road, and I'll lose 10 pounds before you.

Q—Please explain the difference between intestinal flu and intestinal cancer.

A—Strictly speaking, intestinal flu is an acute attack of vomiting and diarrhea that is caused by a virus. Fever may or may not be an accompanying symptom. The term is loosely applied, however, to any severe upset in the digestive tract that lasts for several days. Studies to identify the guilty virus are expensive and are rarely made.

Since a variety of viruses may be the cause, the term "intestinal flu" is a misnomer, especially when applied to the ordinary attack of food poisoning.

The condition has no relationship to intestinal cancer, which is a slowly developing chronic disease that is more like to cause constipation than diarrhea.

Q—I have been taking guttathene (Doriden) sleeping pills for about six months. Would it do me any harm to take them over a long period?

A—This drug should be taken only under careful medical supervision. It causes nausea or itching in some persons. Overdosing may cause convulsions. It should not be taken over a long period. It is definitely habit-forming.

Please send your questions and comments to Dr. Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual letters, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

In spite of all the reports that a lot of important money is available to support a Barry Goldwater-for-president drive in 1964, only 300 to 400 guests are expected at the $1,000-a-plate Washington dinner honoring the Arizona conservative Republican on May 9.

The committee in charge of arrangements says the dinner wasn't really pushed to get a bigger crowd. Letters were sent to Republicans whom they thought might like to attend. No come-one, come-all invitation was broadcast.

The committee also makes clear that dinner tickets aren't being sold for $1,000 apiece. Each invited Republican guest has just been told that if he will donate $1,000 to the 1964 congressional campaign funds, he or she will get a free ticket to the dinner.

The ostensible purpose is to honor Sen. Goldwater for his services as 1962 Chairman of the GOP Senate Campaign Committee.

He can't continue in this job because he has to run for reelection himself in 1964. He is being succeeded by Kentucky Sen. Thurston Morton, former GOP National Committee chairman, who will preside over the dinner festivities.

Kennedy, Constitution And the Moves to Amend

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — Impromptu statements by a President of the United States at a news conference can evoke widespread criticism, especially if the answers show that they have not been thought through.

Thus, President Kennedy over nation-wide television and radio networks told a large section of the American people on Wednesday that, in effect, there is something wrong in trying to amend the Constitution of the U. S. Yet that document itself prescribes the methods of amendment, and the fact is that the Constitution has been amended 22 times since the founding of the Republic.

Mr. Kennedy has a right to oppose particular amendments that he doesn't like. But he will be regarded as out of bounds when he declares that people who want to amend the Constitution are not "defending" the Constitution, particularly when their purpose in the instance referred to is to secure the adoption of specific amendments that will preserve and defend the basic principles of the Constitution itself against usurpation and abuse of power.

What Kennedy Said

The President's words, as they appear in the White House transcript of Wednesday's news conference, were as follows:

"It has always seemed to me remarkable that those people and organizations who are founded in order to defend the Constitution should seek to change it, and particularly to change it in such a basic way, either to affect the power of the Congress to amend the Constitution and put severe limitations upon the Congress, which, after all, represents the people most directly, or otherwise to affect the power of the Supreme Court, which is one of the most important protections of individual rights and one of the most important securities we have for an amicable settlement of disputes, and which after all, became such a significant part of our American Constitution."

Of the 15 Republican senators whose terms expired in 1962, 10 were re-elected and five were defeated. The GOP picked up two in Peter Domenick's election in Colorado and the appointment of Edwin L. Mechem to succeed the late Dennis Chavez of New Mexico.

Goldwater maintained throughout the campaign that conservatism would triumph over liberalism, but five of the Republican senators re-elected in '62 are progressives.

As for the Democratic senators whom the GOP sought to oust by running more conservative Republicans against them—Hill of Alabama, Hayden of Arizona, Fulbright of Arkansas, Smathers of Florida, Long of Louisiana, Olin Johnson of South Carolina and Magnuson of Washington—all seven won.

Also present at the Goldwater dinner will be the hope that this trend will be reversed in 1964.

Mr. Kennedy apparently hasn't looked the proposals which have been made recently by various organizations of citizens and which already have received the support of several state legislatures.

First of all, it is important to emphasize something which the general public may not realize and which perhaps high officials in our government have brushed aside—namely, that the Constitution can be amended in other ways than by a two-thirds vote of both houses of Congress and ratification by three-fourths of the state legislatures. It can be done directly by the people.

Repeal Recalled

For Article V of the Constitution provides that Congress, "on the application of the legislatures of two-thirds of the several states, shall call a convention for proposing amendments, which, in either case, shall be valid to all intents and purposes, as part of this Constitution, when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourths of the several states, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress."

It so happens that the famous prohibition amendment was repealed and the 21st Amendment substituting for it was adopted without being submitted to the legislatures of the states. It was ratified instead by conventions in two-thirds of the states summoned by the state legislatures. It took only nine months to accomplish ratification by the convention method and established a record for quick ratification.

The present movement—which Mr. Kennedy calls, in effect, an attack on the Constitution—is sponsoring three amendments. He first would clarify the language of Article V and simplify the procedure so that, whenever two-thirds of the State Legislatures submitted identical texts of a particular amendment to be voted on and it was then approved by three-fourths of the State Legislatures, the amendment would be automatically certified as having been adopted.

The second amendment proposed would preclude Federal consideration of matters relating to reapportionment of State Legislatures.

The third proposes the creation of a "Court of the Union," which would have the final say in matters of conflicting state-Federal claims of power under the Constitution.

"Strong Bias" Charged

The National Council of State Governments — composed of official representatives of each state in the Union — adopted a resolution last year proposing the three amendments described above. The council said that there had been a strong shift toward the extension of Federal powers and that various Federal court decisions "carry a strong bias on the Federal side."

Here, therefore, is a creditable movement by citizens who are proceeding in a Constitutional manner. Yet Mr. Kennedy, with a sweeping denunciation that reveals he hasn't really studied the problem, puts the Presidential finger of discredit on them as somehow having an improper attitude toward amending the Constitution. Even though the method they are using to make the change is specifically prescribed in the Constitution itself.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

Every man's mother is the best. The older he gets, the more he polishes the image. In time, he puts a halo on her. She was, he will boast, the best cook, the best wife, the best mother, the most frugal housekeeper. "They don't make them like her anymore," he will say.

Maybe, I doubt it. Most men idolize their mothers as a form of penance for their own shortcomings. I loved mine to distraction. When I was 10, I was certain that no mother in the whole world could match Jenny Tier Bishop, and nothing has happened between then and now to change my mind. Maybe that image isn't entirely accurate.

She was a tough disciplinarian. She was only about five feet tall, had naturally wavy brown hair with bronze glints, and fair blue eyes and skin which did not require powder or paint. She was plump in the day when men admired ladies with big curves. Still, the three children had to address her as "ma'am" and my father as "sir."

If I talked back to her, she would swing the palm of her hand across our faces and the sound alone would make our ears ring for 10 minutes. If we were hurt or sick, she nuzzled us, cuddled us, babied us. She used to say "I have no lap," but she would take us on it anyway. Her formal education wasn't much, but she could lecture on God and America.

We had an obligation to both which could never be expunged. She and her father—a policeman like my father—always wanted a flag staff on the lawn and wanted the banner to be snapping in the breeze every day. She made us believe in God without seeing Him or hearing Him and it was pounded in us so firmly that nothing could ever jar it loose.

On Mondays, she washed the laundry in a tub and a washboard. Early in the morning, she made a big pot of vegetable soup and it went for lunch and for supper too. We never got an allowance. To get a nickel or a dime, Jim, John and Adele had to think of something to do over and beyond the normal duties—washing and drying dishes, cleaning the bathroom, dusting furniture, getting coal and wood from the cellar for the stove in the kitchen, going to the stores, school work, polishing shoes and general obedience. If one could think of something outside of those duties, it was possible to earn five or 10 cents.

She was a good cook. Not the best. My wife is a better cook. But she was good. She was a bit too impeccable as a housekeeper. She and my father shamed the children by showing up at the breakfast table fully dressed—mother in a fresh house dress and fancy apron, hair coiffed in a neat bun, my father in a suit, a white shirt and a tie, with shoes glistening.

My mother never heard of Dr. Spock. She brought the children up on love and discipline in equal parts. Her God, her country, her family embraced all that she knew or wanted to know. She permitted herself to slip far behind my father's cosmopolitan interests in the world, the sciences and the arts. She was too busy for those things.

My first wife thought of my mother as "cold." She wasn't. She was a soft touch for a hard luck story, and she often gave secretly when she had little to give. Still, she was stubborn and she could hang onto a grudge for a long time. Until her adversary was hurt or became sick. Then my mother would moan "God forgive me" and rush off to help.

She was feminine to the tips of her shoes. Jenny Bishop was pretty and enjoyed being pretty. She could crochet, make her own dresses and my school blouses, mend, darn, let a garment out or take it in. She had a Singer sewing machine for 50 years. It had a foot treadle, and in time, it wasn't worth $2 on a junk heap.

Still, she gave it away to a grandchild when she reached 70, and one would think that she was conferring a queen's crown. By that time she was blind, and she used a cane which now hangs in my closet. She was tiny then, and she had mellowed so that she did not want her grandchildren to punish her great-grandchildren. She lived with my sister Adele, and she issued the same peremptory orders to Adele that all of us got when we were little.

Once, my father wanted to take her to a specialist in New York to try to restore a little sight to one eye. "What for?" my mother said, in outrage. "I'm an old lady. I've seen everything I want to see." That closed that subject. Her favorite interest was in "listening" to the wrestling matches. Antonino Rocco was her favorite. Her favorite singer was Nat King Cole. When he sang, she leaned forward on her cane and smiled to herself.

She was unafraid of death. "When He's ready to call me," she used to say. "I'm ready." One Saturday in August 1957, she had a bad heart attack. When her breathing was restored, we were in panic. Calmly, she asked Virginia Lee to fix her hair and trim the ends. It was done. Jenny Bishop died the next day, still neat. She was 73.

They still make them like her.

Installation Is Held For Bishop Navagh

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Bishop James J. Navagh, a native of Buffalo, N.Y., has been installed as the fourth bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Paterson.

The colorful, ancient ceremony was performed Thursday by Archbishop Thomas Boland of Newark beneath the high arches of the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist.

Bishop Navagh, who was ordained a priest in 1929 in Buffalo, succeeds the Most Rev. James A. McNulty, who was installed as the 10th bishop of Buffalo May 1. Bishop McNulty was among 20 members of the hierarchy of the church present Thursday.

Revision of Transit Program Is Planned

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — A bill for a revised version of a tri-state transportation compact with New York and Connecticut will be introduced in the New Jersey Legislature in November, according to Gov. Richard J. Hughes.

The governor told a news conference Thursday his administration would support the measure.

He said it is being studied by his legal aides now but it is too late for action at the Legislature's spring session, due to end Monday.

New York has enacted the compact and in Connecticut the State Senate has passed it.

The bill would convert the Tri-State Transportation Committee into a full-fledged commission with legal authority to handle transit projects.

Costly Arrangements

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Eight restaurant owners waited Thursday night to greet a banquet of 150 women bowlers.

The banquet had been booked in all eight restaurants. Not a woman bowler appeared at any.

The owners said a woman made the reservations by telephone. They told the Niagara Falls Women's Bowling Association that they didn't like her sense of humor.

Flow of Delaware River Reported Down

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—The Delaware River's flow is down to the same level recorded at the start of a drought a year ago, a federal official says.

The statement was made Thursday by James F. Wright, executive director of the Delaware River Basin Commission, following a meeting with other federal officials concerned over a possible prolonged drought in the Delaware Basin.

Wright said the New York City reservoirs of Pepacton and Neversink in the upper Delaware Basin are at 46 per cent of capacity, the lowest level since their construction.

Van Valkenburgh Memorial Will Be Mathematics Lab

NEW PALTZ — A complete mathematics laboratory is to be established at the New Paltz Central School in memory of Clifford VanValkenburgh.

Shortly before his untimely death, Mr. VanValkenburgh, junior high school mathematics teacher, had begun a study of possibilities of purchasing this type of equipment for the junior high school and high school. He became so interested in the project that the Mid-Hudson Channel, a publication for teachers in the Hudson Valley, requested he submit an article on mathematics laboratories for publication.

Last week the administration, faculty, secretarial staff, cafeteria staff and custodial staff of the New Paltz Central School voted to establish the VanValkenburgh Memorial Fund for the purchase of equipment for a mathematics laboratory.

Frank Hamilton, central school business manager, has accepted the responsibility of collecting all donations to the memorial fund.

Special Equipment

The room is to have a special chalkboard with a regular graph system on the right and a polar graph system on the left. In between the graph system there will be nine feet of plain board. Above the chalkboard will be a Pro-T-Rule on a fifteen foot track. Logarithmic and trigonometric charts will also hang in the room. A seven foot aluminum slide rule on a floor stand will aid the pupils in learning how to and when to use a slide rule most effectively. Plastic geometric forms, both plain and solid will be demonstrated and used at a special portable laboratory table. This table will have a water pump so that water will be available for such concepts as the comparative volumes of entirely different solid geometric shapes. A slotted globe, twelve inches in diameter, and a chalkboard compass will be included in the laboratories' equipment.

If sufficient funds are available, the students and teachers will use special desks designed to make their use of time more efficient. Under the plastic top of the desks the following tables will be found: common logarithms, natural trig functions, logarithms of trig functions, proportional parts, squares and square roots, cubes and cube roots, common math symbols, common area and volume formulas and other tables. The students, now, must either do slide figuring or flip through many pages, to find this necessary information in the middle of solving a problem. This often leads to unnecessary mistakes.

Total Cost $2,700

The total cost of the proposed VanValkenburgh Memorial Laboratory will be nearly $2,700. Under the National Defense Education Act the federal government will pay for about half of this amount. The goal of $2,000 has been set by the New Paltz Central School staff.

Upon hearing of this project, Matthew Fairweather, William Morris, Van, Pine, Robert Bennett and Robert VanValkenburgh formed a committee to help attain this goal. Any funds after the initial purchase will be used to aid the mathematics department in keeping the VanValkenburgh Memorial Mathematics Laboratory equipped with the best materials available.

The New Paltz Central School staff has chosen this memorial because it represents everything Clifford VanValkenburgh strove for in his teaching. It will be used by every student in the junior high and high school, just as he tried to make himself available to every student for extra help, guidance and friendship. This room will contain the visual and tangible aids he realized for all students, especially the student with less mathematical ability, need for clarification of concepts. This room will facilitate the quicker use of more complex prepared information by the more able mathematical student. Above all, this room will make mathematics an exciting knowledge for all students. A suitable plaque will be placed in the room.

The first contribution to the VanValkenburgh Memorial Fund arrived last Wednesday when money was given with just the comment, "From those who frequent Pappy's." The two Central School P-TA's and the school board members have been asked to contribute any money they might have spent on Teacher Recognition Day to the VanValkenburgh Memorial Fund.

Same Driver Charged As Speeder, Slowpoke

WESTFIELD, N.Y. (AP)—Robert Sexton of North East, Pa., was arrested for speeding. Minutes later, the same state trooper arrested him for going too slow.

Trooper George Domedoni said yesterday he halted Sexton's speeding car near this Chautauque County village. He told Sexton to follow the patrol car to the home of a peace justice, Sexton inched along at 10 miles an hour, the trooper said.

Sexton pleaded guilty to both charges. Peace Justice William Harris of Portland ordered him jailed pending payment of a $20 speeding fine. The justice suspended payment on the other charge.

Light Spraying

portion of the west side of West Saugerties Mountain and portions of Zena, Sawkill area and West Hurley.

In the Town of Ulster a small portion off New Road, south of Sawkill will be sprayed.

To Avoid Streams

The planes will purposely avoid spraying streams in the area, the department spokesman said.

The two Stearman aircraft will be operating in the area for approximately a week. Two pilots and ground personnel are being employed for the task.

The spraying is done mainly in the morning to avoid the winds that hinder spraying later in the day. However, conditions permitting, spraying will be continued in the early evening before dark.

High populations of gypsy moth have been found infesting woodland areas in these vicinities. In order to prevent serious damage and tree mortality, the Conservation Department undertakes aircraft spraying operations during May and June.

Defoliation of the woodland by the insect would cause damage by retarding tree growth with possible eventual tree mortality and losses due to the destruction of game habitat, creation of a fire hazard and destruction of recreational areas. White pine trees usually die after a single stripping of the foliage.

Waivers covering low flying have been issued by the Civil Aeronautical Authority.

Drill, Training Schedule Listed For Hurley Vols

Chief Kenneth Cudney of the Hurley Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 announces the following drill and training schedule:

May 13—Basic equipment orientation.

May 27—Hose drill with tank.

June 10—Hose drills and Scott-Paks.

June 24—Ladder orientation.

July 8—Hose drill and drafting.

July 22—Radio procedure and salvage.

August 12—Simulated fire response.

August 26—Inter-company relay.

Drills will start at 6:30 p. m. and end as closely as possible to 8:30, the chief states.

Interest expressed by members indicates that the drill sessions will be well attended.

Films of drill subjects will be shown as available.

Commenting on the need for continued fire training, Chief Cudney said, "We have one of the best equipped and best manned companies in Ulster County. Most of our active firemen have participated in these training sessions each year and always have gained new knowledge of fire-fighting methods. Training is the only way we can assure proper fire protection in our fire district."

Move to Reinstate Arena Reported By Board Member

Elected to membership on the Highland Central School Board of Education on Wednesday, John Elia said he will continue to work for reinstatement of John E. Arena, recently dismissed by the board as vice principal of the Highland Junior-Senior High School.

As far as Elia is concerned, the issue is not dead. Elia was quoted. At a budget hearing Tuesday night, Elia made a motion that the board reconsider its ouster of Arena. The motion was approved by the majority of residents in attendance.

Elia was supported in his campaign by the Highland Better Education Action Committee, headed by Donald Zeisler and Daniel Alfonso, co-chairmen. The committee has petitioned the State Education Department to investigate the administration of the district.

Craig Plough Heads Freeman 20-Year Club

Craig Plough was elected president of The Freeman Publishing Company 20-Year Club at the annual dinner-meeting held Thursday evening at Leher's Restaurant.

Other officers to serve during the year are Joseph Kelly, vice president; Milford J. Buddenhagen, secretary; Harry S. Hutton, treasurer.

Elected to the Executive Committee were Robert H. Saehoff, Donald R. Hyatt and Donald H. Burgher.

Two new members, Charles Douglas and Harold G. Miller, were welcomed to membership in the club by retiring President Roland C. Post. Watches were presented to the new members by Mrs. Lucia deL. Klock, president of Freeman Publishing Company.

During the evening a report was given by Augustus Schrowang Associates, on the progress in renovating the court house and on progress in renovation of the former A & P store property on North Front Street, as temporary quarters for county departments during construction of a new county building. It was stated that the electrical work in the building had been completed by the owner and that a lease was signed and alterations would commence today. The two year lease became effective Monday, May 6.

On motion of Supervisor James Rapp (R), First Ward, the salary of the County Health Commissioner was set at $17,000.

Want SPCA Report

A special committee was named to investigate into the making of a report by the SPCA which receives an annual appropriation from the county. It was stated that no report on operation of the agency had been received and Supervisors Joseph Turck (R), Daniel Bittner (R), and John J. Lucchi (D), were named to a special temporary committee to investigate the matter.

The board adopted a resolution of congratulations to Deputy Clerk Jack Marquardt on the article which he had prepared and which appeared in the April issue of "County Government" magazine on the historic and industrial advantages of the county.

The board adjourned out of respect to the memory of Clifford VanValkenburgh of New Paltz, a youth leader in the area, and a son of Clifford S. VanValkenburgh of Kingston who for many years served the county as a deputy county clerk, now retired.

Several requests for attendance at conferences by county employees were approved.

County Planning

permitted to use the county fire radio frequency. Snyder told the board no fire district had "refused" to sign, it appeared to be a matter of neglect in returning the petitions.

The board later unanimously approved the plan.

After lengthy discussion on a joint resolution offered by Supervisor Peter Savago, (R), New Paltz, and Supervisor Joseph Martorana, (R), Plattekill, asking the board to express its opposition to closing the Highland State Police Station, the resolution was amended also protesting the closing of the Phenicia station, and adopted with Supervisors Turck, (R) Fourth Ward, and Majestic, (D), Gardiner, abstaining. The vote was 29 for the resolution and none against.

Debate Is Heated

In a lengthy and at times heated debate on the resolution, Minority Leader John J. Gaffney (D), Lloyd, said the station was not going to be closed and the board should "forget" about the resolution.

Supervisor Joseph Turck (R), 4th ward, suggested the matter be held in abeyance and that an invitation to have Captain Carl A. Lawson, commanding Troop "C" or a representative, appear before the board and explain the status of the station and plans for the future. He later offered such a resolution and it was adopted.

Supervisor John Quimby (D), Marlborough, table the Savage-Martorana resolution until next month in order to study the problem. That resolution was lost 18 to 11 with Supervisor Turck abstaining.

Two Don't Vote

On the resolution to notify State Police officials, Governor Rockefeller, Senator E. Ogden Bush and assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, that the board was opposed to closing the Highland station and asking that the Phenicia station be re-opened, the vote was unanimous with Turck and Majestic abstaining.

The board unanimously adopted an increased fee for physicians making examinations under the Mental Health Law in mental examination cases. The fee was $10. The new fee is $25 for day examinations and $35 for examinations made between 9 p. m. and 8 a. m.

A question as to cost of tax collecting under a new law, sponsored by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson (R), by which taxes may be collected in installments, was asked by Supervisor A. Richard Terwilliger, (R), Rochester.

Terwilliger said there was apparently a matter of cost to the county and he suggested that the matter be clarified. An invitation will be issued to Assemblyman Wilson to attend a meeting of the board to discuss the advantages and any disadvantages. The new law puts it up to the township whether or not the plan is adopted locally.

Lease Signed

Injured When Car Is Struck in Rear

Leona Felton, 39, of Ruby was injured about the back Wednesday when the car she was operating near the D.D. Drive-In on Route 9-W north of Kingston, and a car operated by Carl R. Huck, 54, of Glenelg Lake Park were involved in an accident.

Deputy Sheriff Jack Seahoff said the woman said she would seek medical aid from her physician.

According to the investigation both cars were traveling north when the Felton car stopped for traffic. The Huck car was unable to stop and struck the Felton car in the rear. The Felton car was damaged about the front. The Huck car was very badly damaged about the front. The accident happened at 4:50 p. m.

Troopers Arrest Second Man in Highland Shooting

State police made a second arrest Thursday in connection with a shooting incident on the Narbonne farm on North Road, Highland on May 1.

Investigator Joseph Ventriglia, Kingston BCI, took Archie Williams, 20, of 36 Union Street, Poughkeepsie, in custody after the accused youth signed himself out of Vassar Hospital where he was a patient, suffering a bullet wound of the chest.

Williams was charged with first degree assault. Arraigned before Justice of the Peace Philip Schunk, Town of Lloyd, he asked for an adjournment and hearing was set down for Monday. Williams, troopers said, was committed to the county jail.

Prior to his discharge against doctor's orders from the hospital at Poughkeepsie, troopers said, Williams was ill with pneumonia. He will be admitted to a local hospital, where he will be under guard by a deputy sheriff until he recovers.

Previously arrested was John Major, 22, an employee on the Narbonne farm where the shooting took place, authorities reported. Major was charged with second degree assault. He is in jail awaiting grand jury action.

On the night of May 1, Williams reportedly engaged in an argument with Elizabeth Major, identified as a cousin of John. During the hassle Williams allegedly hit the woman and threatened to kill her with a crowbar.

Returned With Rifle

Major, troopers said, went to a bedroom and returned with a loaded 22 caliber rifle. He ordered Williams from the house, and the Poughkeepsie man allegedly threatened Major with the crowbar. Major, troopers said, shot Williams in the chest.

The incident was investigated last week by Senior Investigator Frank Stankamp, Investigator Roger Gardner of the BCI and Troopers John Salter and Paul Hesselmann.

mediate two no-trump bid?" yelled North.

"The same place you found your jump to six," replied South.

"Keep still and let me see what I can do with this mess."

After that peroration South proceeded to make the slam and there was nothing East and West could do about it.

South figured out that there was one combination of cards that would allow him to make six no-trump and then gave the cards a chance.

He took the first spade, led a heart and finessed dummy's jack. Then he laid down the ace and king of diamonds and dropped East's queen. Now he cashed dummy's three high clubs to see if the jack would fall. Then back to his hand with the ten of diamonds for another heart finesse. Eventually he conceded the last trick, but scored game, slam and rubber.

"The luckiest so-and-so alive," grumbled East.

"A lucky player would have dropped the jack of clubs and made seven," replied South.

Tavern Man Says He Paid $1,000 To Quash Charge

CARMEL, N.Y. (AP)—Anthony Mancini, who owns the Village Barn tavern in Mahopac and the Putnam Lake Inn in Patterson, says he paid $1,000 to a Putnam County liquor official to get a violation charge quashed and to obtain other favors.

Mancini took the stand Thursday at the county court trial of George Kurz, 38, executive secretary of the Putnam County Alcoholic Beverage Control Board, on charges of taking illegal fees from Mancini.

The county ABC board had charged Mancini with selling to minors at the Village Barn Tavern. Under questioning, he said he gave Kurz $500 on Dec.

28, 1961, as part of an agreed price of $1,000 to have the violation charge killed.

Mancini said he gave Kurz another $500 on Sept. 16, 1962, to help him get a liquor license for the Putnam Lake Inn.

If convicted, Kurz faces a maximum prison sentence of 35 years and fines up to $17,000.

Ulster Is Not Receiving Fair Share State Aid Levitt Says

Ulster County residents would have saved some one and one half million dollars in future interest charges over the life of school bonds sold over the past five years, if the School Bond Financing Authority had been adopted when "I first proposed it in 1957," State Comptroller Arthur Levitt said in an interview with this department. He was in Woodstock to address the annual spring dinner of the Woodstock Democratic Club.

Comptroller Levitt, the lone Democrat in the present New York state administration, said there was no reason why Ulster County residents, or for that matter any of the state's citizens, must continue to tolerate overcrowded school conditions under excessive local tax burdens.

"I know, of course," said Levitt, "how vital the school issue especially has been to the people of Woodstock and Ulster County for several years. In turn, the people of Ulster should know about two programs which I have been especially concerned with designed to alleviate situations such as yours — programs for a State School Bond Financing Authority and for realistic state aid to localities.

Inequitable Share

"Here in Ulster County, where the strain on the primary and secondary school system has been felt not only by local property owners, but also by your youngsters who shuttle into crowded classrooms or uncomfortable double sessions, you are not receiving anywhere near your just share of financial help from your state government," Levitt charged.

"Since my program for a School Bond Authority was first advanced," Levitt added, "we have seen the enactment of a variety of state authorities to deal with such needs as housing, atomic energy and industrial development. The Housing Authority itself was modeled after the School Bond Authority."

The lack of adequate classrooms is certainly as important as the problems presumably being solved through the creation of other authorities, the comptroller said.

Helps Districts

"The School Bond Authority is designed to enable those districts with low rates and without any credit rating to take advantage of the lower rates a State Authority could command," Levitt pointed out. "On the average, this rate would be at least one half per cent less than that available to localities. In principle, the Authority would raise money by its own bonds much as they have in the past. The only difference would be that under my plan the districts would have the option of selling their bonds to the State Finance Agency or selling them on the general bond market."

Levitt said that in the opinion of leading investment bankers, the obligations of the New York State School Bond Financing Authority would be readily marketable on a high-credit basis.

Other Features

"The plan has other attractive features," continued Levitt. "A financial advisory service would be available to all school districts. The Authority would be staffed by people experienced in municipal finance to advise the local school districts. Even those school districts which would not choose to sell their bonds to the Authority could seek advice under the plan.

Still another favorable point in this plan is that the Authority would be able to space its bond sales, the comptroller noted. At present most school districts tend to conduct their bond sales consecutively, with proper regard to the market, he added.

Levitt noted that the Authority would preserve local choice as to the marketing of bonds; it would improve the marketability of all school district obligations; it would attract a national market; it would insure the credit of its own obligations; it would provide advisory services to supplement its direct program, and it would save local taxpayers premium interest rates. This, he said, clearly is a program designed to alleviate problems such as yours here in Ulster County and throughout the state.

"If we can achieve economy in this matter," he concluded, "we can help ease the burden of local taxes and encourage the construction of needed facilities. As Democrats, we must bring this message to your people and show how our party's leadership alone can bring the greatest benefit to the largest number of people."

Bennett School Has Program For Arbor Day

Children at the Reginald R. Bennett elementary school at Boiceville celebrated Arbor Day with a variety of projects and activities.

The main feature of the day was an assembly in front of the school which featured the planting of several spruce trees and flowering shrubs. The shrubs were donated by Kelder Nurseries, Kingston, the Woodstock Garden Center, and the Trail Nursery, Boiceville. The program opened with the Pledge to the flag led by Christine Gardner of six grade. George Haug, a fifth grader, gave a speech telling the history and significance of Arbor Day. The planting of the trees and shrubs concluded the assembly.

Special Display

In observance of the day, the Bennett Library has a special display on medicinal herbs. The art classes worked on cut paper pictures depicting flowers, animals or woodland scenes. Speech classes have practiced choral readings with nature themes. Joyce Kilmer's Trees was a favorite.

Mrs. Argulewicz's class has undertaken the identification and labeling of the trees and shrubs on the school grounds. Mrs. Fucik's first grade has begun a unit on Birds and is learning to identify some common types. Mrs. Gordon's sixth grade identified and mounted specimen twigs of trees, shrubs and flowers.

During the morning, the kindergarten, fourth and fifth grades planted shrubs and flowering plants and bulbs at the rear and side of the school building.

The Arbor Day festivities generated much interest and learning about plant and animal life. It is hoped that the celebration of Arbor Day will become a tradition at the Bennett School.

Kahils Are Hosts To AFS Student Due From Turkey

SENER OZER

The name of the host family and foreign exchange student who will attend Onteora Central school for a year were announced today by Mrs. Lillian Hartwell, president of the Onteora Chapter of the American Field Service and Mrs. Jane Bromberg, chairman for Home and Student-Family Adjustment.

The host family is Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kahil of Mt. Tremper and the student is 17-year-old Sener Ozer of Konya, Turkey. Ozer's application was formally and unanimously accepted by the Onteora Chapter as well as the Kahil family.

The Kahils were overjoyed with the news, received on April 30, and are looking forward to Ozer's arrival in August with great anticipation. Mrs. Hartwell and Mrs. Bromberg said. The Kahil family includes four boys ranging in ages from 8 to 16. The oldest, Rick, will be a senior in September, as will be Sener Ozer.

Plans are proceeding for Ozer's needs beyond those which are provided for in his scholarship.

A permanent lunch pass will be issued to him by the Onteora cafeteria. School supplies will be furnished by the Onteora Book Store and a Year Book will be donated by the Tomahawk staff.

Mrs. Ben Merch has announced a recent contribution to the AFS fund by the American Legion in Woodstock.

Urgent Appeal For Blood Donors

An urgent appeal for blood donors has been announced by the Woodstock Public Health Nursing Committee. Plans were made at the May meeting of the committee for a blood drawing on Thursday, June 13, at the parish hall of St. Gregory's Church, from 5 to 8 p. m.

It was noted at the May meeting, presided over by Mrs. Edmund Tomaselli, president, that the committee has helped many residents of Woodstock township during the past winter. Blood is now desperately needed to carry on this life-saving project, as the current supply is very low. The blood is used solely for res-

Little Leaguers

Register, May 11

There will be registration for Woodstock Little League Saturday, May 11, at the judge's chambers of the Reynolds House next to the Woodstock town hall, from 10 a. m. to 12 noon. All area boys from 8 to 12 years old may register and there is no fee. However parents are reminded to provide proof of age.

Tryouts also will be held Saturday at 2:30 p. m. at Andy Lee Memorial Field. All new registrants boys who are already assigned to a team must report for the tryouts.

Practice sessions will begin next week and the season will get under way about June 1.

idents of Woodstock township, without charge. A local doctor, two registered nurses, three technicians and an experienced staff of volunteer workers will be in attendance. A hearty supper will be served to all donors.

Scholarship Award

Also on the agenda of the Public Health Committee was the Scholarship Award which the Woodstock Public Health Committee gives annually to the girl student who resides in the Township of Woodstock and is graduating and planning a nursing career. The name of the student receiving the award will be announced at a later date.

A letter of thanks was sent to the Woodstock Square Club, for their generous gift of a wheel chair which will be a much needed addition to the Loan Closet for the use of any resident of our township needing it.

Loan Closet

This Nursing Committee would like the residents of the Township of Woodstock to know that it has exceptionally well-equipped Loan Closet of all types of sick room supplies which are loaned free of charge to residents. Some of these items are gifts from residents of the community. The Nursing Committee is entirely responsible for the maintenance and replenishment of all of the articles in the loan closet and in this way it is sure of being adequately able to supply the needs of the patient sick at home. This Loan Closet is located at the Health Center in the House Building over the House store in the center of Woodstock. A telephone call to Mrs. Arthur Jones or Mrs. Alex Sharpe will help you obtain anything you may need — please do not hesitate to ask.

Before adjourning the meeting, Mrs. Tomaselli appointed a nominating committee and announced that election of officers will take place at the June meeting at the Health Center.

Music will be presented by the church senior choir under the direction of Mrs. Richard Braen.

Several Items on Firemen's Agenda

The reports of fires during the month, authorization of use of volunteer firemen signs on automobiles, interior decoration of the firehouse, and the calling of an executive meeting were on the agenda of Woodstock Fire Company No. 3 serving the Willow-Lake Hill-Shady area.

Captain Alfred Ostrander reported to the company the presence of men and equipment at four grass and brush fires and the participation of members at a garage fire on the Glasco Turnpike. He also stated that regular fire drills had been held during the month, that the kit of tools for work on the equipment was now in possession of the company, and that the new tank truck was "working out well" in fire fighting use.

4-Company Drill

Fire drills for the month of May included a 4-company drill on May 8 at Woodstock and a Sunday afternoon drill scheduled for 2 p. m. on May 26 at the firehouse in Lake Hill.

Work on the interior decoration of the firehouse is underway under the direction of Richard Peters and Fred Fisher. The colors of white and grey will be used.

Based upon a request by the newly organized fire police for better identification of volunteer firemen arriving at the scene of a fire, Company No. 3 voted to acquire volunteer firemen signs for automobiles and additional badges for members. This equipment would belong to the fire department but would be issued on deposit to all active members.

Special Meeting

Tuesday, May 14, at 7:30 p. m. at the firehouse, a meeting of the Executive Board of the company has been called to review company procedures both at meetings and concerning drills and fires. According to President Richard Peters, the results of this meeting will be submitted to Fire Chief George Haythorne for this approval.

Lieutenant Paul Shults reported that Fire Company Engineer Robert Smith had requested that the pump on the engine be used at least twice per month. The Executive Committee was asked to consider a program at its meeting to comply with this request from the department.

Captain Ostrander announced that the following members of the company would be on firehouse duty for the month of May: Richard Peters, Bruce Taylor, Phillips Eighmey, Arthur Smith, and Henry Eighmey.

Reformed Church News and Notes

Divine Worship will be conducted by the Rev. Donald Edgar Hicks Sunday, May 12, at 11 a. m. at the Woodstock Reformed Church. The sermon theme is: "The Golden Link" in observance of Mother's Day. Sunday, with the text from the "Magnificat": "He that is mighty hath done to me great things."

Music will be presented by the church senior choir under the direction of Mrs. Richard Braen.

Name Mrs. Winslow For Unit Chairman

Mrs. Zenna Winslow was elected chairman of the Woodstock Home Demonstration Unit for 1963-64 at the April meeting of the local organization.

Other officers elected were: Margaret Schulz, vice chairman; Ella Elliott, secretary; Elsie Ertz, treasurer.

Mrs. Winslow made the following appointments: Therese Duane, head hostess; Inez Hall, project chairman; Irene Kullmann, sunshine chairman; Gladys Wilmott, publicity chairman.

The next meeting of the unit is scheduled May 14 at 1:30 p. m. in the Overlook Methodist Church hall. Plans for the June luncheon will be discussed. The feature of

Methodist Bishop Says State Isolating Church

BINGHAMTON, N.Y. (AP) — Bishop Fred Pierce Corson, president of the World Methodist Council, says the nation is "going through a period of isolation of the church by the state."

Politicians virtually ignore church people, the bishop said, because they believe that any action will be forgotten by church members within six months.

The bishop commented Thursday night in an address to about 800 members of the Women's Society of Christian Service at a session held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Wyoming Conference of the Methodist Church.

He referred to the U.S. Supreme Court decision that held that recitation of the Regent's Prayer in New York State's public schools was unconstitutional, and said:

"Six months ago the churches of our nation were stirred before by the U.S. Supreme Court's decision which said that God and religion had no place in public education. What do you hear now?"

"We have apparently adjusted ourselves to live with it and our children are getting educations that lift up science but refuse the teaching of religion."

"With the rise of secularism," the bishop said, "we are not going through a period of church and state. Rather, we are going through a period of isolation of the church by the state."

At the society's business meeting, Mrs. Roger B. Glazier, wife of the pastor of Fairview Methodist Church in Binghamton, was re-elected president of the organization. She has been president of the society since 1960.

Other officers elected by the women's organization: Mrs. Arthur Morris of Taylor, Pa., vice president; Mrs. Arthur Dean of Norwich, recording secretary and Mrs. Willard Merriman of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., treasurer.

The conference picked three delegates to attend the church's northeast jurisdictional conference. They are the Rev. Dr. Francis Freeman, superintendent of the Oneonta District; the Rev. Dr. Alfred Crayton, pastor of a church in Endwell; and the Rev. Dr. Earl V. Tolley, superintendent of the Scranton, Pa., District.

Visits Greece

William K. Wakeley Jr., electronics technician third class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. William K. Wakeley of Grove Street, Tilton, serving aboard the destroyer USS Harlan R. Dickson, visited Patras, Greece. The Dickson's crew joined the Greeks in celebrating their National Independence Day, March 25. The Dickson, temporarily assigned to the Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean permanently operates out of Newport, R. I.

Democrats Charge Deceit by Rocky On Pay System

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Legislature's Democratic minority leaders charge Gov. Rockefeller with using "deceitful methods...to hide abandonment of pay-as-you-go" during the 1963 Legislature.

Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Anthony J. Travia leveled the accusation in a statement Thursday appraising legislation Rockefeller approved during the bill-signing period that ended Monday.

They had special criticism for the governor's plan to use the State Housing Agency as a vehicle for financial expansion of State University and mental hygiene facilities.

Under the legislation enacted, special governmental units will issue bonds through the Housing Finance Agency to pay for construction. To pay off the bonds, the State University will use the income from tuition, and the mental hygiene unit will use income from fees paid by patients.

Rockefeller says these will be self-liquidating enterprises and therefore do not violate his policy against deficit financing.

Of the governor's program, Zaretzki and Travia said: "This is not pay-as-you-go. It is a fake-as-you-go."

They held that Rockefeller's plan would raise interest costs to "stupendous proportions" because the housing agency may issue bonds for 50-year periods, while ordinary state bonds would have to be paid off in 15 or 20 years.

CHECK FOR MENTAL HEALTH—The first check representing funds received from the initial chain of bridge games to raise money for Ulster County Association for Mental Health is received here by Mrs. Henry Millonig of Kingston, chairman of the sponsoring committee. William J. Fitzgibbon, (center) AHRC treasurer, and Harry Thayer, president accept the check. The series of games started in conjunction with the observance of National Mental Health Month. ## List National Mental Health Month Activities

National Mental Health Month is being observed in Ulster County in rather an unusual way. On May 1, a bridge party was given by Mrs. Herman Knaust of Saugerties.

The 12 guests had been invited to participate in a "Disappearing Bridge Chain," which is being organized to raise the money necessary for the operation of Ulster County Association for Mental Health.

Guests Listed
Guests were: Mrs. John Olivet, Mrs. Fred Port, Mrs. Roger Chiquette, Mrs. Frieda H. Dingee, Mrs. William Ziegler, Mrs. Thomas Reynolds Sr., Mrs. Arthur Hazenbush Sr., Mrs. Walter Darling, Mrs. William C. Jacobs, Mrs. G. V. D. Hutton, Mrs. Harry M. Thayer, and Mrs. Henry Millonig.

Each of the guests agreed to arrange for a party to be given the following week, and invite 12 guests. These in turn will do likewise the week after and invite eight guests, who will complete the chain during the last week in May by giving a party and inviting four guests. All participants in the bridge will contribute to Ulster County Association for Mental Health.

Members of the committee organizing these games for the local Association for Mental Health are: Mrs. Millonig, chairman, of Kingston; Mrs. Dingee of Kingston; Mrs. Alan P. McCorkle of Stone Ridge, and Harry M. Thayer, president of the association, a well-known bridge player.

Ulster County Association for Mental Health, with its office at 27 E. O'Reilly Street, Kingston, is financed entirely by voluntary contributions.

Accomplishments Listed
Some of the accomplishments of the association include the recent publication of a "Directory of Mental Health Services for Ulster County," a 16-page booklet for use of all those who are called on to give guidance and counseling on the care and treatment of those suffering from emotional handicaps or illness; some 300 of these have been distributed free to key people throughout Ulster County. The association also sponsored last fall a one-day institute for professional and community leaders on "Alcoholism—A Community Problem."

The association provides films, speakers and printed materials for civic organizations, church groups, youth clubs, schools, etc. on many different aspects of mental health, and the treatment of mental illness; for instance, a program on how to handle disturbed persons to a group of law enforcement officers, and on the emotional aspect of sex development in a larger program on sex

Hold Construction Worker in Death Of 67-Year-Old

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—An unemployed construction worker who police said admitted striking a 67-year-old woman will be arraigned on a charge of first-degree murder.

Edward S. McCaulley, 41, was seized Thursday in Baldwinsville after fleeing his apartment when police attempted to question him about the slaying Wednesday of Mrs. Lilly Sickles, detectives said.

No date was set for his arraignment.

Capt. Samuel Nappi, chief of detectives, said police went to McCaulley's apartment to determine whether he fitted the description of a man seen drinking with Mrs. Sickles in a tavern Tuesday night. Mrs. Sickles, whose clothes had been torn off, died of massive internal bleeding that could have been caused by kicks to her body, a medical examiner reported. She was the second woman found beaten to death here in little more than a week.

Nappi said McCaulley signed a statement admitting he struck Mrs. Sickles during an argument early Wednesday.

Meanwhile, ex-convict Ernest W. Wells, 27, entered a mandatory plea of innocent Thursday to a charge of first-degree murder in the death of Miss Agnes F. Pensabene, 33. Her body was found April 30 in a city park less than a mile from where Mrs. Sickles' body was discovered.

Wells was seized April 30 as an alleged parole violator.

Clarence Kobuski, Noted Curator Succumbs Upstate

WESTON, Mass. (AP)—Clarence Emeren Kobuski, 63, curator of the Arnold Arboretum in Boston and of the Gray Herbarium of Harvard University, died today.

Kobuski, a Groversville, N.Y., native, achieved international recognition for his taxonomic (classification) studies on two families of flowering plants, Jasminum and Camellia.

He also was noted as a specialist on Asian plant life and is credited with being responsible for much of the scientific work that resulted from Arnold Arboretum expeditions to China, Japan and New Guinea and islands in the southwest Pacific.

He was a graduate of Cornell.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Henry Schroeder of Saugerties, N.Y., and a brother, Lawrence of Groversville, N.Y.

Why We Say--

FORBIDDEN TAX: This word always has had underhand meaning - originally though, it was a tax (mail means tax in England) paid by Scotch and English farmers living on the border between these countries during the border warfare. The mail or tax was paid against government consent and was finally banned or "blacklisted" by law.

Hospital Week Observance Noted At Rotary Club

In recognition of Hospital Week to be observed May 12 to 18, Edwin B. Boiz, co-administrator of Benedictine Hospital presented the film, "Decision" at the Kingston Rotary Club luncheon - meeting Wednesday. Preceding the film, he made the following comments:

Next week, May 12 to 18 the hospitals throughout the nation will celebrate Hospital Week. This year we in the hospital field are to bring to the attention of the public the many career opportunities offered the youth of our nation in today's hospitals. It is also the time of the year when we again wish to acquaint the community with the complex cost picture presented by our hospitals. Since I have covered completely the subject of career opportunities available in the hospital field in press releases, I would like to present the cost picture.

Can increasing costs be stopped in hospitals? Public interest in hospital affairs has brought forth a great flood of ideas on how our hospitals should be run and how the care of the sick and injured should be financed. These range from many sincere and valid suggestions to proposals for complete governmental control of health care. It has been suggested that hospitals should be considered the same as public utilities and regulated by the State with an agency similar to the Public Service Commission. Other ideas include the suggestion that patient care should be subsidized by the State in a wide range of plans up to and including the complete socialization of medicine.

At the outset it must be recognized that the upward spiraling of costs which has affected every segment of our economy cannot be stopped exclusively in the hospital field any more than it can be stopped separately in the building trades, in the cost of food, clothing, automobiles, or any other commodity as service. It is fatuous to believe that hospitals can be singled out and isolated to hold the line against increased costs when such costs affect every type of business, every phase of our living. Suggestions have been made that do not or could not reduce these costs but which attempt to solve the problem by switching the burden to other shoulders, mostly to the already over-burdened taxpayer. It is only by bringing the hospital and its services to the community into proper focus that we can hope to approach a sound solution to these pressing problems.

In order to more adequately present the behind-the-scenes factors that affect the pressing decisions that have to be made every year by hospital Boards of Trustees in regard to hospital costs, I wish to present to you one of the films made available by hospitalization insurance companies for this purpose.

District Assembly

Kingston Rotary will be hosts to Rotary District Assembly to be held here next Wednesday. The district comprises 36 clubs in Orange, Sullivan, Ulster, Rockland, Columbia, Dutchess, Putnam and Greene Counties.

Among the visitors at Wednesday's luncheon was Hubert Hoderath, guest of Sam Pepper. The Lion and the Rotarian were elected Tuesday to the Kingston Board of Education.

Vatican Stamp Collection To Be Feature at May Show

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the third in a series of articles released in conjunction with KINSEPEX III, the stamp exposition sponsored by the Stamptrappers Society. The exhibit will be held at the Stuyvesant Hotel May 18 and 19.

The signing of his "Motu Proprio" Feb. 2, 1962 by His Holiness, Pope John XXIII, establishing the starting date of the Vatican II Ecumenical Council, was not only a momentous date in world religion but a date that has played an important part in establishing the collection of Vatican postal issues throughout the world.

The government of the State of Vatican City became a member of the Universal Postal Union on June 1, 1929 and issued its first stamps on Aug. 1 of that year. Actually, the state was new in name only. From 1870 when Rome fell to the Italian troops and a plebiscite favoring the accession to the Kingdom of Italy placed the Pope in voluntary imprisonment in Vatican City until February 11, 1929 when a Concordat with Mussolini recognized the Vatican as an independent, all outgoing mail went by private courier. Incoming mail was delivered by two Italian postmen, recognized by the Vatican, and admitted without uniform. Finally, after almost 60 years of this strange arrangement, the Vatican was recognized as independent. Catholicism was given preferred status in Italy and the postal treaty of July 29, 1929 gave birth to the issue of the Conciliation — the Vatican's first issue.

More than 300 different postage stamps had been issued prior to the convening of the Vatican II Council. In the period of eight months, preceding the council opening commemorative covers from the Vatican utilized stamps featuring St. Patrick, the Papal birthday and the Nativity. The stamp exposition to be held by the Stamptrappers Society on May 18 and 19 at the Stuyvesant Hotel will include in its exhibit, a complete collection of these now famous covers which commemorate the 21st ecumenical council to be held, the first in over 90 years.

The display which is part of a private collection is introduced with a brief history of the 21 councils including the dates of their existence, the reigning popes, locale and accomplishments. The pre-council travels of Pope John XXIII, photographs of the signing of the decree establishing the council and a photograph of a letter from President Kennedy to Pope John XXIII are included. A group of covers issued on the first day of the council feature the reigning popes of the preceding councils—reproductions from the frieze inside the Basilica of St. Paul Outside the Walls in Rome. Press photographs have been reproduced and imprinted on envelopes issued on October 13, 1962 showing the many non-Catholic observers at the Vatican II council.

To the art lover, the reproduction of many of the great works of art on Vatican postal issues will have great appeal. Raphael's "Faith," "Hope" and "Charity"; "La Pietà" by Michelangelo; Crivelli's "Virgin Mary" are but a few of the art treasures that may be seen reproduced on stamps.

Notwithstanding the religious significance of the council, the postal issues are in themselves of great importance since the artistry of the masters is brought into clear focus for the entire world, rather than just for the select few who have an interest in these works of art.

It is interesting to note that special cachets were placed on envelopes to commemorate each congregation during the council — each cachet imparting to the viewer some phase of the council's activity. With the reconvening of the council later this year, these first postal records of the council will provide a complete historical background for the future issues of the Vatican postal authorities that are anticipated.

The Stamptrappers Society is extending a cordial invitation to everyone to visit their biennial exhibit at the Stuyvesant Hotel on May 18 and 19 and to see the many phases of philatelic activity that now occupy some 10,000,000 American stamp collectors.

Capping Ceremonies for Student Nurses At Benedictine Hospital School Here

The Class of 1963, Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing, received caps at ceremonies held in St. Mary's Church on April 28, 1963.

After the Blessing of Caps by Father Bockstie, the student nurses were capped by Sister Mary Callista, OSB, director of the School of Nursing and Sister Mary Cecelia, OSB, assistant director.

The Rev. Richard Bockstie, CSSR, JCD, professor of Moral Theology, Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary, Esopus, gave the address. In his remarks, Father Bockstie said, "the nurse through her profession is in a position to do wonderful things for both soul and body. She works for the comfort of the patient, cheerfully performing menial tasks, bringing courage to those afraid and solace to those disconsolate. What makes the nurse willing to do these things? 'Whatever you do to any one of these, my least brethren, you do to me.' Her words are simple and sincere."

The ceremony concluded with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The Benedictine Hospital School of Nursing is accredited by the National League for Nursing and registered by the State Education Department of New York State.

Caps were presented to the following:

Diane Berinato, Kingston; Diane Guarino, Middletown; Kathryn Schoenberger, Poughkeepsie; Susan Nucaro, Kingston; Jo-Ann Ricci, New Paltz; Patricia Werner, Kingston; Mary V. Conway, Union, N. J.; Patricia Parete, Stone Ridge.

Patti Jane Vendriesco, Wilbur Whitman Wed at Hurley Church Sunday Afternoon

Miss Patti Jane Vendriesco, daughter of Mrs. A. Paul Vendriesco of Hurley and the late Mr. Vendriesco, and Wilbur Jack Whitman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitman of Hyde Park were wed 4 p. m. Sunday, May 5, at the Hurley Reformed Church. The Rev. Harold F. Schadevall, pastor, officiated.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Robert Cimorelli of Catskill, the bride wore a floor length sheath style gown of peau de soie with bell shaped skirt. It was styled with a scooped neckline and short sleeves with a flyaway back panel. Her fingertip veil of English illusion was attached to a headpiece of stylized flowers. She carried a cascade of daisies and white roses.

Mrs. Dominick Petramale of Glasco was matron of honor. She wore a blue tulle organza over tulle gown with a wide cummerbund at the waist. Her headpiece of stylized flowers secured a short flirtation veil and she carried a bouquet of blue daisies and pink snapdragons.

Barbara Bellens of Catskill, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a dress of white silk organza with a very full skirt over yellow taffeta with detailed embroidery at the waist. She wore a crown of blue and pink Shasta daisies entwined with ivy and carried a nosegay of blue and white flowers.

Sanford Whitman was best man for his brother, Jack Fochi of Nyack, brother-in-law of the bridegroom was usher.

A reception for 50 guests was held at the home of the bride's mother. Out-of-town guests included people from St. Petersburg, Fla., Catskill and Poughkeepsie.

After a wedding trip to the Virgin Islands, the couple will be at home at 5D Spring Wood Village, Hyde Park.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Whitman are graduates of Kingston High School. Mr. Whitman is vice president of Whitman Electric Inc., local electrical contracting firm with offices in Kingston and Poughkeepsie.

TO PLEASE HER FINANCE

Q: I was to have been married last year but due to certain circumstances, the wedding was called off. I had already asked a friend to be my maid of honor, but fortunately she had not as yet bought her dress. Now I am going to be married to someone else and because I know it will please my fiancé, I would like to have his sister as my maid of honor. I would like to know if this would be proper or am I obliged to ask the first girl again to fill this position?

A: There is no obligation to again ask this first girl to fill this position, but you should explain to her that because it will please your fiancé so much, you should have his sister as your maid of honor, and if you are having bridesmaids, add that you would love to have her as one of them.

Inviting the Doctor and His Wife

Q: After four years of contact with our family doctor, I invited him and his wife, whom I had never met until that evening, to dinner. We enjoyed their company very much and they seemed to enjoy ours. We would like this friendship to continue. They have not as yet returned our invitation. May we invite them to our house again without seeming to force ourselves on them, or must we wait until they invite us to something?

A: Strictly speaking, you should wait for the doctor and his wife to return your invitation. However, if they seldom entertain, you may invite them again since you say they seemed to enjoy dining with you, without feeling that you are forcing yourselves on them.

Wife's Friend Stops to Talk

Q: When my husband and I are out walking and I meet a woman acquaintance who stops and talks to me, my husband usually walks on slowly. I think this is very rude on his part, but of course he insists he is perfectly right. I am writing to you to settle this difference.

A: If he knows your friend or you immediately introduce him to her, it would be very rude of him to walk on, but otherwise quite all right.

Local Hadassah Is Honored; Receives National Award

The Kingston Chapter of Hadassah received two awards at the spring conference of the Lower New York State Region of Hadassah, held Monday through Wednesday at the Young's Gap Hotel, Liberty.

The local chapter received honors for its achievement in reenrollment of members, handled by the Mmes. Walter Suskind, Herbert Gertner and William Helmrich, while the local board was honored by the national organization as the first "key board" in the entire country. The national honor pertained to achievement in enrolling new members; chairmen were the Mmes. Martin E. Kantor and Stanley London, Mrs. Robert S. Yallum, president during the past year, accepted the awards on behalf of the chairmen.

Delegate to the conference was Mrs. Arthur Landesman, newly elected president for next year. Attending Monday's session were Mrs. Sidney Halpern and Mrs. Yallum, while the Mmes. Sidney Treinkman, Carl Berntsein, Alfred Horowitz and Robert Yallum were present at Tuesday's meetings.

Mrs. Maurice Weiner of Newburgh, regional president, presided over the sessions. Monday's program included workshops on membership and youth activities. Tuesday's program included sessions on education and fund-raising, with Mrs. Landesman participating on the fund-raising panel.

On display at the conference were bulletins published by the Kingston Chapter, over the past year, edited by Mrs. Melvin Mones, and the local group's publicity folder.

Wednesday's closing meeting included elections of regional officers and an organization session.

Miss Maria DeCicco, Robert C. Dudek Wed At St. Mary's Church on Sunday, May 5th

The double ring wedding of Miss Maria Silvana DeCicco and Robert Charles Dudek was performed by the Rev. Edward J. Farrelly at St. Mary's Church 2 p. m. Sunday, May 5.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Salvatore DeCicco of 621 Kierstead Avenue and Mr. Dudek is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Dudek of 24 First Avenue.

Soloist for the occasion was Martin Kelly.

The bride wore a gown of Chantilly lace fashioned with a molded bodice, long tapered sleeves and a scalloped neckline. The triple tiered skirt terminated in an aisle wide tapered train. A queen's crown of waxed orange blossoms secured the bouffant veil of English illusion. She carried a lace covered missal with phalaenopsis orchids and showers of Stephanotis.

Mrs. Robert Millett was matron of honor. Other bridal attendants were Dana and Angelina Savoca, Joan Palacco, Frances Duffy and Sue Dudek, sister-in-law of the bridegroom.

All attendants were gowned alike in sheath dresses of summer peau de soie with fitted bodices, abbreviated sleeves and scooped necklines with matching overskirts and picture hats of nylon maline. Colors were lilac, pink, maize, aqua, peach and Nile. They carried fireside baskets of snapdragons, daisies, roses and ivy to match their gowns.

Carla DeCicco was flower girl for her sister. She wore a floor length gown of white silk organza posed over taffeta with a high neckline and mid-length sleeves. The waist was encircled by a sash of pink which terminated in a back bow and streamers. She carried a miniature fireside basket of sweetheart roses, daisies and ivy.

Brother of the bridegroom, John Dudek, was best man. Ushers were Frank DeCicco, Ross DeCicco and Ralph DeCicco, all brothers of the bride, Donald Duffy and Thomas Mooney. Ringbearer was John DeCicco, a cousin of the bride.

Approximately 250 guests attended a reception at the White Eagle Hall.

For a wedding trip to the Poconos, the bride wore a three-piece basket weave ensemble with white accessories and a corsage of phalaenopsis orchids.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Dudek are graduates of Kingston High School. The bride is employed at Colony Liquor Distributors Inc. and Mr. Dudek is employed at Flanagan's clothing.

They will make their home in Kingston.

Sister Selected For Seminar at Fordham University

Sister Mary Berenice, U.T.S.V., who teaches at Notre Dame School, 168 West 79th Street, New York City, will attend a summer institute for Secondary School Teachers of mathematics at Fordham University, under a grant from the National Science Foundation.

Sister Mary Berenice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Keating of Whiteport Road, Kingston. She was graduated from the Academy of St. Ursula in 1950 and received her BS degree from Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis. She is now teaching at Notre Dame School in New York City, a sister school of the Academy of St. Ursula.

Seventy mathematics teachers from various parts of the country were selected from more than 900 applicants to attend the Fordham Institute which will begin on July 8 and continue through August 15.

Organ Recital Is Slated at Point Sunday Afternoon

The concluding program in this season's series of organ recitals at the Cadet Chapel, West Point, will be given on Sunday, at 3:30 p. m. by John A. Davis Jr., organist and choirmaster. The public may attend.

Mr. Davis will be assisted by instrumentalists from the U. S. Military Academy Band, directed by Lieut. Colonel William Schenck. Featured soloist will be Donald McInnes, violinist.

The recital will include a Handel Concerto for organ and orchestra; Meditation and Processional for viola and organ by Bloch; Fugue, Canzona and Epilogue by Karg-Elert, for solo violin, organ and Women's chorus, and other compositions by Dupre and Telemann.

The concluding selection will be the Chorale and Toccata from Sowerby's Festival Music for organ, brass and kettledrums.

Local DAR Members Hear Report Given On Convention

Preceded by the executive board meeting and a covered dish supper, Wiltwyck Chapter Daughters of the American Revolution held a meeting at the Chapter House Monday, May 6 with Mrs. Cloyd Leslie Elias, regent, presiding. Hostesses for the supper were the Mmes. George Dingee, Clair S. Sheaffer, George C. Swart and Robert J. Torrens Jr.

The first vice regent Mrs. R. R. Empringham read a letter of appreciation signed by all the members of Brownie Scout Troop No. 94 of St. Remy for the Flag of the United States of America with staff and eagle presented to it by Wiltwyck Chapter April 3, 1963, the ceremony had been attended by Mrs. Elias and Mrs. Walter T. Tremper Recording Secretary.

After reports of the Chapter officers and Chapter chairmen, that of the nominating committee was given, presenting for election Miss B. Isabel Herdman, second vice regent, Mrs. Stuart S. Randall, corresponding secretary, and Mrs. W. Dale Swartzmiller, member of the executive board. All were unanimously elected.

Delegates and alternates to the New York State Conference at Utica October 2-4 were also elected. Delegate Mrs. Adam H. Porter, alternates the Mmes. Hollis M. Burhans and Conrad J. Gross. Alternates to the Regent Mrs. Elias were the Mmes. Blanche M. Fitzgerald and George C. Swart.

The report of Continental Congress held at Constitution Hall, Washington, D. C. April 14 through 19 was given by the delegate Mrs. Adam H. Porter.

The theme for the coming year will be from Deuteronomy 31-6, "Be strong and of a good courage," utilized by the President General Mrs. Robert V. H. Duncan as the subject of her welcoming address.

Speaker at the opening session was Jenkin Lloyd Jones, editor of Tulsa Tribune, Tulsa, Okla., whose subject was, "The Uses of Tradition." He mentioned the National Society's genuine pride in the American tradition, its noble function to preserve balance, wisdom, courage and vigor, its unprecedented generosity. Regarding the American Revolution, Mr. Jones said that the ideal was there: man's relation to his rulers, else it would have survived the Battle of Lexington. That the hunger, loneliness, doubt and misery were the birth of a nation.

"Ladies of the DAR," he said, "America is STILL a great story. Out of such traditions grew Bennington, Saratoga, Valley Forge, Yorktown, Chateau Thierry, Tarawan and Anzio Beach. Bravery is the conquest of fear. People need genuine heroes and misbehavior is no longer fashionable. Give back to our American children their American heroes. THE TRUTH of America is good enough." Mr. Jones received a standing ovation.

Madam President General Mrs. Duncan reported that in traveling throughout the country at the various state conferences and in Washington itself there is an expanding interest and concentrated attention on the National Society DAR by the general public with increased inquiries regarding its historical, patriotic and educational endeavors. That over 27 per cent of members admitted the past year were under 35 years of age.

Tuesday evening, April 16 was National Defense Night with many congressmen and senators in the various State Boxes. The Pledge of Allegiance was given by Dean Manion of the Law School of Notre Dame University.

The National Chairman of National Defense Mrs. Henry R. Jones stated that she had received hundreds of letters from all over the country in appreciation of the DAR.

Speaker of the evening was the Hon. John G. Tower, senator from Texas, who termed the DAR a great service organization preserving moral, spiritual, and constitutional values, and urged the members to continue their constant endeavor to alert the American public.

The work of the National Society through its twenty-four National Committees in the fifty

Authoress Earns Fantastic Weekly Sum for Comedy

The author of "Mary, Mary," the Broadway stage hit, is an attractive young mother of five sons, a housewife, too, and about forty years old. That's the description of a lot of women—but there is one thing that sets Jean Kerr apart from the others. It's her salary—last year she made $10,000 a week!

That isn't bad pay for spending six months writing a play. Of course, lots of people write plays, but fail to hit the jackpot which gets the Internal Revenue department extremely interested in her activities. The trick is to write a play that makes people scream with joy, and then send out a few companies while the original show continues its merry way on Broadway, where it is still playing to packed houses.

The show which did the golden goose job for Mrs. Kerr is coming to Kingston on Tuesday, May 14 and it will play one evening performance. The play will be given in Community Theatre.

The laugh lines which abound in "Mary, Mary" involve a young housewife, who dishes out snappy answers. People who know Mrs. Kerr well say that in great part the central character is a good deal like the author, herself.

There are four companies of "Mary, Mary" abroad in the land. Each one is doing land-office business and Mrs. Kerr collects ten per cent of every dollar which comes into the box-office. If it is true that "Mary, Mary" is in good part some of the story of her life, Mrs. Kerr is really making it pay off.

Or, as one observer puts it—it's nice work if you can get it.

states and chapters overseas were reported during the week. The DAR Manual for Citizenship used in preparing the foreign-born totaled 62,410 the past year with New York leading the nation with distribution of 14,168. This organization, all members of which are the descendants of immigrants, has a special affinity toward the foreign-born displayed in a desire to assist them toward citizenship with attendance at all Naturalization Courts.

Special awards were given to Col. John H. Glenn accepted by Gen. Norman J. Anderson, USMC. To Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer for the best patriotic film the past year, "How the West Was Won," and the best children's film, "The Wonderful World of the Brothers Grimm." Representatives of the studios were present from Hollywood to accept them.

The Drum and Bugle Corps from the Marine Barracks, Washington, D. C. in their scarlet uniform coats and navy trousers presented a Flag Pageant during which was displayed the several flags in use in this country as Colony and Nation which was breath-takingly spectacular. As the fifty star flag of the United States of America was presented, the entire audience rose to its feet. The United States Marine Band opened the Continental Congress with a concert and processional and terminated it with this Pageant.

New Paltz Students Will Present Play

Once Upon a Mattress, the second annual all-student musical comedy is scheduled for presentation at the State University College, New Paltz, Wednesday and Thursday, May 15 and 16 in the College Auditorium at 8:30 p. m.

Based on the famous fairy tale, The Princess and the Pea, the production promises to be as enjoyable and memorable as previous productions presented previously, according to student directors of the play. It is being produced by Delta Psi Omega, the national honorary dramatic fraternity at the college.

Tickets may be obtained in the hallway near the College Bookstore from May 13 through May 16.

Bill Brophy Will Visit Kingston for KHS Class Reunion

Well known radio and TV announcer, formerly of WKNY and member of the 1943 KHS graduating class, will emcee the high-light of the class reunion on Saturday evening, June 8 at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Bill Brophy's career in radio and TV started while he was still in high school. In 1942, he won an on-the-air audition for an announcing position with WKNY. He held this job for a year after graduation from Kingston High. He enlisted in the Navy in June of 1944 and after his discharge in 1946, he returned to WKNY. Here he remained until September of 1949, when he joined the staff of WHTT, ABC affiliate in Hartford, Conn. In February of 1959, he switched networks becoming a staff member of the Hartford NBC affiliate WTHI. It was during the six and one half years he spent with this station that his network broadcasting career began. He was heard on NBC with current host of the presently popular Password TV show Allen Ludden. Mr. Ludden was then doing the panel radio show which launched his career Mind Your Manners. Bill was MC for a variety of musical shows for the network, in addition to reports from the scene of many outstanding news events. The most memorable... his assignment as touring the flood stricken state of Connecticut in August of 1955 with the news team accompanying Gov. Abraham Ribicoff. In Oct. of 1955 he joined the

BILL BROPHY

ABC staff in New York. Since then he's been on TV in a show with Dick Van Dyke, announcer for two Art Carney specials on ABC, host of the Bob Cummings film series "Love That Bob" for two years. Currently he's heard Monday through Friday evenings at 11 p.m. as the announcer for a television news show on the air at that hour. In addition to this, he may be heard on Sunday afternoon commencing with the 12:55 p.m. news, in a series of five shows, that are aired hourly on the ABC Radio Network.

The committee is hard at work completing plans for the reunion. Johnny Knapp and his orchestra will play for dancing.

On the preceding evening, June 7, a medley of 1943 songs will be played by pianist Howard Houghtaling during the Cocktail Party. Members are urged to mail their reservations in as early as possible to Mrs. Marie (MacAndrew) McNierney, Neighborhood Road, Lake Katrine.

High School Girl To Be Featured in Concert at College

One of the features of a concert by the College Community Orchestra of the State University College, New Paltz, scheduled for Tuesday evening, May 21, will be a flute solo by Miss Martha Sherwig.

Under the direction of Dr. C. Lincoln Igou, professor of humanities at the college, the program will be held in the College Auditorium at 8:15 p.m. The general public may attend free of charge.

Miss Sherwig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Sherwig, will play the Concerto in G Major for Flute and Orchestra by Johann Quantz. Miss Sherwig is a student at the New Paltz High School and her father is a member of the faculty of the college. Both of them share a deep interest in the flute and have sat together in past rehearsals of the orchestra. Miss Sherwig has studied the instrument for several years and has proven her skill in both solo and ensemble performances in high school musical organizations as well as with the College-Community Orchestra.

The composer, Quantz, was an 18th Century son of a blacksmith who became the most famous flautist and composer for the instrument during that period. In fact, it was the excellence of his playing that persuaded the man who was to become Frederick the Great to study the flute. Quantz is credited with some 300 concertos which were written for the king, and several hundred compositions in which the king could participate.

Also included in the May 21 program will be numbers by Beethoven, Benjamin Britten, and Howard Hanson.

Those hard-cooked eggs you are planning to serve for lunch will taste extra good if you add a cheese sauce and a garnish of pimiento strips.

Walkkill Students At Future Teachers Meeting in L. I.

Schools throughout the nation recently observed "Teaching Career Month" to call public attention to the necessity for getting and keeping good teachers.

High school students at the Walkkill Central School who have chosen teaching as a probable career are provided with the opportunity to observe and work with students under the guidance of master teachers in the elementary school. As members of the Future Teachers of America, students can consider the choice of a teaching career and assessing their own personal assets, limitations, and interests. Clare Ostrander, of the Walkkill Elementary School, arranges the schedule the students follow.

As members of the Future Teachers Club, the group investigates what a teacher does, how teachers are prepared, certification requirements, the selection of an accredited college, what it costs to become a teacher, as well as an introduction to professional ethics in teaching.

Mrs. Beverly Howell is the advisor to the Future Teachers of America organization at the Walkkill Central School.

Student representatives of the Future Teachers of America of the Walkkill Central School recently attended the Eighth Annual F. T. A. Conference at Adelphi College, Garden City, Long Island. The conference was sponsored by the New York State Teachers Association.

Dr. Dorothy McGeoch, Professor of Education, Teachers College, Columbia University, delivered the keynote address in which she discussed "The School of 1975."

The school of the future was envisioned as one in which skills will be learned through many approaches, some of which may be accomplished through a large program as well as lectures in new techniques in teaching, in classroom management, and classroom teaching.

Representing the Future Teachers of America organization from the Walkkill Central School was Suzanne Kopaskie, Linda Edsall, Sharon Edmonds, and Jeanne Harcher. Mrs. Beverly Howell accompanied the group.

Carpenter-Berardi Wedding
Mrs. Elsie Carpenter of East Chester Street extension exchanged marriage vows with Eugene F. Berardi on April 26 at St. Catherine Labourer Church. Officiating at the 10 a.m. ceremony was the Rt. Rev. Msgr. James McNally.

The bride was given in marriage by her nephew, Robert R. Read of New Paltz. She wore a street length dress of orchid lace and silk and carried a small colonial bouquet.

Mrs. Robert T. Read was matron of honor and wore a fern green chiffon dress. She also carried a colonial bouquet.

The bridegroom's nephew, James J. Berardi Jr., Kingston, was best man.

Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Berardi left for New York City. From there they sailed on the Santa Paula for the Caribbean.

Mrs. Berardi is employed as a secretary at Charles Ramsey Corporation. Her husband is employed by James Berardi Inc.

Ever serve piping-hot chili con carne (homemade or canned) over hot cornmeal mush. Nice as a change from the usual accompaniment of soda crackers or rice. Add a tossed green salad and you've got your meal made.

Annville Choir Will Present Concert at Old Dutch on Monday

Monday 8 p.m., the Touring Choir of the Annville Institute, Annville, Ky., will give a concert in the sanctuary of Old Dutch Church, Main and Wall Streets.

The program will include mountain songs and ballads as well as sacred selections. There will be no admission charge. A free-will offering will be taken which will be used to defray the cost of the tour.

The Touring Choir is a selected representative group from the institute. Through message in song they express the appreciation of the school to the Reformed Church in America for helping carry "the gospel of Jesus Christ through work and deed to all these people of the mountains."

Annville Institute has been supported by the Reformed Church for 54 years. It is fully accredited by the state of Kentucky and its curriculum is so designed to serve both the vocational and college student. Part of the student's training is also participating in the daily organized two-hour work program.

During their stay in Kingston, members of the choir will be guests in the homes of the Old Dutch congregation. The concert is open to the public.

Weishaupts Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary Here

Mr. and Mrs. August Weishaupt of Hurley celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on April 28 at Van Gonsie home- stead in Tillson, the same house where they had been married.

Mr. Weishaupt is a retired railroad engineer. He was formerly employed by the New York Central Railroad Company. Both he and his wife are 71 years of age. Mrs. Weishaupt still enjoys rug hooking.

The couple have four children: Mrs. Melvin Beuler of Saddle River, N. J.; Joseph Weishaupt of New Paltz; Mrs. John Broderick of Glenside, Pa.; and Lawrence Weishaupt, who resides at home. They also have seven grandchildren.

More than 75 relatives and friends attended the festivities.

St. Peter's Club Sets Supper Plans

Final plans for a ham supper sponsored by St. Peter's Mothers Club were announced today by Rosemarie Westfall, president of the organization.

The event will be held Sunday, May 19, at St. Peter's School Hall, Adams Street with serving from 4 to 6:30 p.m. Public may attend.

Tickets may be obtained from Jo Schupp, chairman, at 23 West Pierpont Street or at St. Peter's Rectory office.

Serving on the committee are Lucy Lamb, Theresa Graf, DeLores Maish and Kathryn Schupp.

Participates in Parley

Dr. Richard K. Klix, chairman of the division of graduate studies at the State University College, New Paltz, participated in a conference for coordinators on Inter-Institutional Affiliation Projects held under the auspices of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education which was held in Washington, D. C. last week.

The State University College at New Paltz has an Affiliation with the Central Institute of Education in Delhi, India. Several students from the Institute, including Mrs. Kamala Rajagopal and Mathew Zaeharich, have earned their Master's degrees at New Paltz. About 58 College and Universities now have Affiliations with institutions abroad. All of these programs have recently been brought under the supervision of the Department of State.

Dr. Klix also has been elected to serve on a team of the Middle States Association of College and Secondary Schools to evaluate the graduate programs at Gannon College in Erie, Pa. May 9 and 10. He also will represent the college at New Paltz at a meeting of the Directors of Graduate Studies of the State University which is scheduled at the State University College, at Buffalo May 13.

YWCA Art Appreciation

The Art Appreciation group will meet Friday, May 17, at the YWCA at 12:15. Mrs. Raymond Bonestell will lead the discussion on Rembrandt.

Rembrandt, a Dutch painter, 1606-1669, painted over 700 paintings and a vast number of superb etchings. He found satisfaction in analogous color schemes, especially those ranging through red to yellow, catching the magic quality of flesh. His subjects were illuminated with a dark background. He died in poverty, having been declared bankrupt, but did many fine self-portraits in his last period of retirement.

The public is invited. Come with a lunch and learn more about this famous man.

Still a good salad trick: rubbing the salad bowl with a cut clove of garlic.

Video, Las Vegas Combination Puts Al Hirt in Front

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—When Vincent Edwards, who had been around Hollywood a long time trying to get a foothold, finally found his ladder in "Ben Casey," he delivered what has become his most famous line:

"Sure," he commented, "I'm an 11-year-old overnight success."

Big Al Hirt, generally conceded to be the No. 1 trumpet player of his generation, has a success story that makes Edwards' rise seem meteoric.

"I've been playing for 30 years, and a professional musician for 18," said Al. "So how do you explain what happened to me about two years ago as anything but luck?"

Hirt, a New Orleans boy, had a good musical education, chose the trumpet as his instrument and for a while played with some of the big bands—the Dorsey Brothers',

Ray McKinley's and Horace Heidt's. Then he quietly went back to New Orleans.

Eventually he became a part owner of a Bourbon Street place, leading his own musical group. But still no one really paid much attention to him, although he was playing the same kind of music that now has all the experts flipping.

In Las Vegas, Hirt and his horn were heard by Dinah Shore's producer, who booked him.

"And that was it," the 300-pound, bearded musician said. "We went from there to Ed Sullivan Show—for the umpteenth time. The clubs all over the country began to open up. It was the combination of television and Las Vegas that did something that all that time in New Orleans couldn't do."

He'll be blowing his horn Sunday night on the Ed Sullivan Show—for the umpteenth time. And just for a little variety, he'll try a little singing, too.

MODENA NEWS

Miss Glennie M. Wager—Telephone TU 3-7156

Area Social Notes

MODENA — Tuesday evening, May 14 is the date of the Wesleyan Service Guild meeting, to be held at the home of Mrs. Florence Hyatt, in Clintondale, with Mrs. Alice Lofink as assistant hostess. Mrs. Marian Jensen will lead the program on Bible study. The Town of Plattekill will meet Tuesday 7:30 p. m. at the Town Hall, in Ardonia.

Choir rehearsal will be held Wednesday May 15, at 7:30 p. m. in the Modena Methodist Church, with Mrs. Henry Black as director and Miss Diane Black as organist.

The son, born April 22, at the Kingston Hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Rhodes, has been named Charles Arthur. Mrs. Rhodes is the former Alma Matheson of this place.

Vols Activities

Joining the Modena Fire Department at the May meeting, Thursday evening in the Modena Fire house, were Max Del Cotto, Charles Simmons and Louis Secunda.

Gordon Rhodes, chairman of arrangements for the annual banquet sponsored by the Modena Firemen, announced the date as Saturday evening, May 25, at Oddo's Route 44-55, east of Clintondale. Early reservations are requested.

Ronald A. Wager, chairman of the committee distributing fire-company phone stickers and letters of instructions on the proper way to send in alarms, reported that a complete coverage of the town was made.

Francis McDowell accepted the chairmanship of the annual fireman's fair, to be held during July, on the firehouse property. Exact date will be announced later.

Fire drills are continuing each Monday 8 p. m. Phases of smoke conditions are being stressed at current meetings.

Several alarms have been answered recently, when fires besides the railroad tracks were spreading dangerously.

The next meeting of the department will be Thursday, June 6, at 7:30 p. m.

Nurse Group Meets

The Public Health Nursing Committee of the Town of Plattekill met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Stewart Pink, south of Modena, off Route 32.

Those attending were Mrs. Milton Van Duser and Mrs. Bernard Kopaskie of Plattekill; Mrs. George Daley of Ireland's Corners; Mrs. Clayton Mackey of Clintondale; Mrs. Roy Jensen of Ardonia; Mrs. Fred Bernard, Mrs. Walter Lofink Sr., Mrs. Ronald A. Wager, Mrs. William Decker, Mrs. Albert Molson of Modena.

It was reported that twenty children attended the clinic held Thursday, May 2, in the Hasbrouck Memorial Hall. A similar clinic will be held, for infants and pre-school children of the Town of Plattekill, Thursday, June 6, at 1 p. m. in the local hall.

A basket of fruit was sent to Mrs. Ira Hyatt of Ardonia, who has been ill at her home, during the past month.

Mrs. Roy Jensen, chairman of the committee, requests that anyone having available space to store the loan closet equipment, including hospital beds, mattresses, wheel chairs, to contact her as soon as possible, as such articles must be removed from the property of DuBois Grimm, where they have been for the past years.

Members decided to depart from their former annual custom of combining a meeting and picnic during the month of June, when committee activities cease for the summer months. Instead they have planned a luncheon-meeting at LeHerb's Restaurant, near Kingston, Tuesday, June 4.

Discussion was made relative to the awarding of a scholarship to a deserving student of nursing, in the Town of Plattekill, regardless of where the training is received.

A sum of money will be donated by the committee to the hall committee for remodeling and renovating the Community Hall.

Community Notes

Vernard B. Wager of Plattekill, Mrs. S. L. Bernard and son Jon, of Poughkeepsie, visited Miss Glennie Wager Thursday.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service of the Modena Methodist Church will meet Tuesday, June 11, at 2 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Earl B. DeWitt Sr., New Hurley.

Local students attending the Wallkill Central School whose names appear on the high honor roll at the marking of the third quarter, are Suzanne West, Patricia Sutton and William Adams. On the honor roll, local students listed are James Palen, Carolyn Pink, Ellen Tozzi.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A bold new concept of film production, announced this week by three studios, gets the support of veteran star James Stewart.

Columbia, MGM and 20th Century-Fox startled Hollywood with the news that they are considering construction of a new studio to house all their movie-making enterprises.

"It sounds like a step in the right direction," commented Stewart. "I think the only practical way to make pictures is the way they used to be made—with a big-studio operation. You've got to have a big contract list to choose from and you've got to make a lot of pictures to keep them and the studio busy."

"That's what MCA is going to do with Universal and Revue. And that's how the new setup could be for the three companies that are considering the new studio. I'm all for it."

Stewart refuses to join the crepe-hangers who declare that Hollywood is washed up.

"The potential for film is greater than it ever was," he declared. "There are more outlets than ever, and movie makers have to think in terms of using them all."

He said he knew some people in Hollywood think of television as the enemy. But we've come a long way from the days when we couldn't even show a television set in a living room in movies.

"We've all got to get married to television, whether we like it or not. It should be a part of our thinking. We've got to consider that every picture we make will ultimately be played on the home screen."

He added that some producers have tried to attract that missing audience by offering sensational and sordid films. He refuses to go along with them. That's one of the reasons he is doing his first movie in a year, a comedy called "Take Her, She's Mine."

"I think I've got some more mileage in me," he said, "and I'd like to work more. But good stories have been scarce. Producers tell me I should do something different, something daring. No, thanks, I'd rather not work."

Dr. Harold Dorn, 56, Cancer Researcher Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. Harold F. Dorn, 56, whose 1959 studies laid the foundation for the Public Health Service search for links between lung cancer and smoking, died today.

Death occurred at the National Institute of Health in suburban Bethesda, Md., but the cause was not disclosed. Dorn had been chief of the biometrics research branch of the National Heart Institute there since 1960.

A native of Tompkins County, N.Y., Dorn was educated at Cornell University and the University of Wisconsin.

Poughkeepsie Nips Kingston High, 2-1, in DUSO Contest

Maroon Leaves Tying Run on 3rd Base in 7th

Halting a ninth inning Kingston High rally with some clutch pitching, Poughkeepsie dealt the pennant hopes of the locals a severe blow with a 2-1 DUSO league victory yesterday at the PHS diamond on Forbes St. in the Bridge City.

Meanwhile, Newburgh Free Academy remained unbeaten with a 5-3 verdict over visiting Port Jervis. The defending champions had only four hits but they bunched them for a four-run third inning as Pete Petrillo outdueled Brian Seeber.

League Standings:

Team	Won	Lost
Newburgh	3	0
Middletown	2	1
Kingston	2	2
Poughkeepsie	1	2
Port Jervis	0	3

Bob Plass of the Pioneers out-pitched Kingston's Wayne Johnson in the low scoring duel. The locals scored in the first inning when Dave Horton walked, swiped second and rode home on Bob Smith's single.

Johnson ran into trouble in the third frame when he walked his opposing moundman. Then Bob Schoch singled and when the hit was misplayed, Plass scored the tying run. Dom Verdi drew a walk and then George Gordon hit into a force at second as Schoch tallied the winning marker.

Berardi Triples

The visitors had a big chance in the final inning as Nick Berardi led off with a booming triple to deep center field. Plass was equal to the occasion. He retired Paul Gruner, Ronnie Thomas and Johnson without permitting the ball to leave the infield. It was a frustrating setback for Coach Al Gruner's nine and a tough loss for Johnson, who fanned 12 batters and allowed just four singles.

Kingston, with a 2-2 league record, will travel to Saugerties next Monday and will host Middletown next Thursday in a DUSO contest.

The box score:

Herbert Has Magic

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Ray Herbert was just another good journeyman pitcher before he made his way to Chicago. But there, under manager Al Lopez, he found the magic touch.

Herbert hadn't caused many sensations in eight seasons at Detroit and Kansas City, although he won almost as many as he lost. One season he even won more than he lost.

Then came the trade to Chicago. Last year, his first full season with the White Sox, he had a 20-9 record and led the league in win-loss percentage.

This season his start is even better. He's 4-1 and all the victories have been shutouts, the last three in a row. The last was a two-hit, 2-0 blanking of the New York Yankees Thursday night that protected the White Sox' one-game lead atop the standings and dropped the Yankees to fifth.

Orioles Second

Baltimore climbed into a share of second with a 4-1 triumph over Boston while Washington finally got around to beating Mudcat Grant, whipping the Cleveland Indians 6-0 behind Dave Stenhouse, in the only other games scheduled.

Herbert, 33, a right-hander, allowed the stumbling Yankees only three base runners in extending his scoreless inning string to 27.

Grant had won 12 straight in Washington before the Senators finally got to him. He left in the fourth after Ed Brinkman unloaded a three-run homer. Stenhouse spaced seven hits in gaining his first shutout of the season.

Chuck Estrada and Stu Miller combined for three-hitter in the Orioles' victory over Boston.

Robinson Is Rolling

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Frank Robinson, a notoriously slow starter, went 5-for-5 and drove in seven runs on two homers, two singles and a double Thursday night as Cincinnati erupted for its biggest offensive output of the season and crushed Houston 13-3.

It was easily Robinson's best night and gave every indication that his bat, usually rather quiet in April, is beginning to point toward the ball like a divining rod.

The 27-year-old right-handed swinger now has six homers and 22 runs batted in.

The St. Louis Cardinals bombed the Los Angeles Dodgers for 17 hits, including a grand slam homer by Bill White, in a 10-7 victory.

First-place San Francisco beat Milwaukee 8-2, Chicago's second-place Cubs ran their winning streak to six by beating Pittsburgh 3-1 behind Dick Ellsworth's two-hitter and the New York Mets made it four in a row with a 3-2 decision over Philadelphia.

White hit the first pitch by Dodger reliever Dick Scott for his grand slam as the Cards exploded for seven runs in the fifth inning. Gene Oliver and Charlie James also homered for St. Louis.

Felipe Alou drove in three runs with his seventh homer and two doubles and scored four runs in the Giants' victory at Milwaukee.

The Cubs won their ninth in 10 games as Ellsworth allowed only a second inning single by Donn Clendenon and Dick Schofield's single in the ninth.

Tom Harkness drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single and Johnny Klippstein uncorked a wild pitch that sent the winning run home in a three-run ninth inning upswing that gave the Mets a sweep of the three-game series with the Phillies.

Maroon Cindermen Trounce Poughkeepsie High, 95-27

Winning 10 of 14 events, Kingston's unbeaten track team overpowered Poughkeepsie, 95-27, in a dual meet yesterday at Dietz Stadium. The locals completely dominated the action and would have scored even more if Tom Auringer hadn't been disqualified after winning the 220 yard dash. In winning, he interfered with a Poughkeepsie runner.

Though the locals didn't have a double winner, Poughkeepsie had Tom Gerstenfeld capture the 180 yard hurdles and the 220 yard dash and Bob Rogan score victories in the 440 yard run and in the broad jump.

Coach G. Warren Kias' cindermen will host Newburgh Free Academy next Tuesday at Dietz Stadium.

James Dunnigan Resigns at MR

Monticello—James J. Dunnigan, Jr. today offered his resignation as Race Secretary at Monticello Raceway.

In accepting the resignation, Monticello President and General Manager F. E. Devlin said, "We regret the circumstances which have prompted Jimmy's resigning. He has done an excellent job for us at Monticello Raceway from the very beginning. His knowledge and talent as Race Secretary have been developed in more than five years that he has been associated with us and we hope his future in this industry will be bright," Devlin said.

Dunnigan was hired by Mr. Devlin right off the Notre Dame University campus in 1958. He became Assistant Race Secretary at Monticello following his graduation that June.

The next season, Dunnigan was named Race Secretary, a position he has held since. Under Dunnigan's supervision, racing at Monticello has grown in stature and the young energetic veteran of harness racing was instrumental in providing "a number of firsts for Monticello patrons," according to Devlin.

Dunnigan scheduled a variety of different races at the Sullivan County track, including the most now-retired Adios Butler in 1961. A new track Pacing mark was established in that event—1:59.2.

It is reported that the pressing duties at Buffalo Raceway, and his association with the new harness track to be built in Phoenix, Arizona, prompted Dunnigan's resignation.

According to Mr. Devlin, a successor to Dunnigan is expected to be named within the next week.

Sport Club Back In CNYSSA Play

Springfield Wins Pair of Shutouts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Springfield Giants shut out the York White Roses twice Thursday night, 2-0 and 7-0, to tighten their hold on the Class AA Eastern League lead.

The Giants ran their advantage to 1½ games over the second place Elmira Pioneers, whose game with Reading was postponed.

Fred Norman struck out 13 batters and pitched himself out of trouble in the ninth-inning as the Binghamton Triplets defeated the Charleston Indians 5-4 in the other league game.

Springfield has now won five straight.

Rios, Bach Hurl KHS Jayvees to 5th Victory, 3-0

Gene Rios and Brian Bach combined to hurl a one-hitter as the Kingston High Jayvees won their fifth consecutive game, 3-0, against Poughkeepsie yesterday at the Athletic Field.

Rios, making his first start of the season, hurled five frames, walking six batters, fanning 10 and giving up one safety. He was relieved in the sixth by Bach, who struck out four and walked two the rest of the way.

The locals scored their three runs in the third inning off loser Bob Somogyi. Bob Chilson rapped a triple to highlight the rally.

Coach Mike Rienzo's team will play at Saugerties on May 20.

Lipscomb, All-Pro Grid Star, Dies

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP)—Gene (Big Daddy) Lipscomb, All-Pro defensive tackle for the Pittsburgh Steelers, died today.

The accident room at Lutheran Hospital, which made the identification of the famous football player, said cause of death was not known.

Lipscomb, who was traded to the Steelers by the Baltimore Colts two seasons ago, was taken to the hospital around dawn.

Lipscomb was one of the stars of the professional game. He weighed 288 pounds and stood 6-foot-6. He was 31 and had played 10 years in the National Football League. He came to professional football without the benefit of college experience.

Lipscomb reached the peak of his career in 1958 and 1959 when he made the All-Pro team.

Lipscomb and his wife, Cecilia, were divorced in 1960. They had two children.

Mrs. Brown's husband was a writer, and he pounded the typewriter at home, turning out manuscripts of one kind and another, which he sold for sufficient recompense to enable the Browns to afford a maid. The new girl had been working only a little over a week, however, when she came to her mistress, and said: 'Sally—You pay me four dollars a week, mum.' Mrs. Brown—Yes, Sally. And I can't afford to pay you any more than that. Sally—I know, mum, (glanc-

A nurse in the maternity ward asked a young medical student why he was so enthusiastic about obstetrics.

He said sheepishly, 'When I was on medical rotation I suffered from heart attacks, asthma, and itch. In surgery, I was sure I had ulcers. In the psychiatric wards, I thought I was losing my mind. Now, in obstetrics I can relax.'

Admits Mistake

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—Wallace R. Mulligan of Saratoga Springs, told Glens Falls police he erred in reporting thieves had taken a chain saw from his truck parked on a street.
He said it had been removed by a friend who was afraid it might be stolen.

Cool Weekend Is In Store, to Start Warming Monday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The extended forecasts, prepared by the U.S. Weather Bureau, for the period from 7 p. m. today to 7 p. m. Wednesday:

Eastern New York—Quite cool over weekend. Warming early next week to near normal. Temperatures averaging near or slightly below seasonal levels. Showers ending Saturday. Another period of showers likely by Tuesday. Rainfall amounts will be spotty and generally under one-half inch.
Western New York—Temperatures will average near normal to three degrees above normal. Cool over weekend, followed by warmer weather next week. Precipitation will average one-quarter to one-half inch in showers tonight and again towards middle of next week.
Temperature normals—Daytime highs in 60s; nighttime lows in 40s.

Christmas at 82 Degrees

MIAMI, Fla. (A)—The tree set up in John Burns' living room last Christmas was a mighty fatigued for when John Burns Jr. finally showed up on leave from the Army Thursday.
But it was still on hand and so were Christmas cards and a sun-bleached dog wreath. Outdoor Christmas lights twinkled in 82-degree temperature.
The family did it to keep intact. John Burns Jr.'s record of never missing a Christmas observance at home.

Cornell Students Capitol Bound For Rights Rally

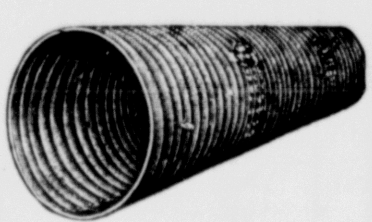

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Cornell University students, encouraged by a turnout of about 150 persons at an integration rally here, plan to gather Saturday on the Capitol steps in Washington.

While 50 southern whites watched quietly, about 150 white and Negro students demonstrated Thursday outside a student center.
Student leaders said the rally was intended to show support of Negroes in Birmingham.
University safety officers stood by, but there was no disturbance. Some Negro students left during the rally.
William L. Griffen, a professor of education at the State University College at Cortland, was among three speakers. He said he was a friend of William Moore, a white postman from Birmingham, who was shot to death last month in Alabama while on an integration pilgrimage.

Decker to Take Over

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Lewis P. Andreas will retire next January, and James H. Decker, his assistant, will step up to his post of athletic director at Syracuse University, the university announced today.

Names In the News

A former First Lady, Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, is in Walter Reed Hospital in Washington, D.C., where she had a small, non-malignant tumor removed from her neck. A hospital spokesman said Mrs. Eisenhower, 66, "is making a good recovery and is expected to leave the hospital in a few days." She has been a patient since last Monday.

Dr. Benjamin Spock, noted child care specialist and author, has advised Western Reserve University alumni in Cleveland, "Don't let me and others like me make you so nervous about your children."

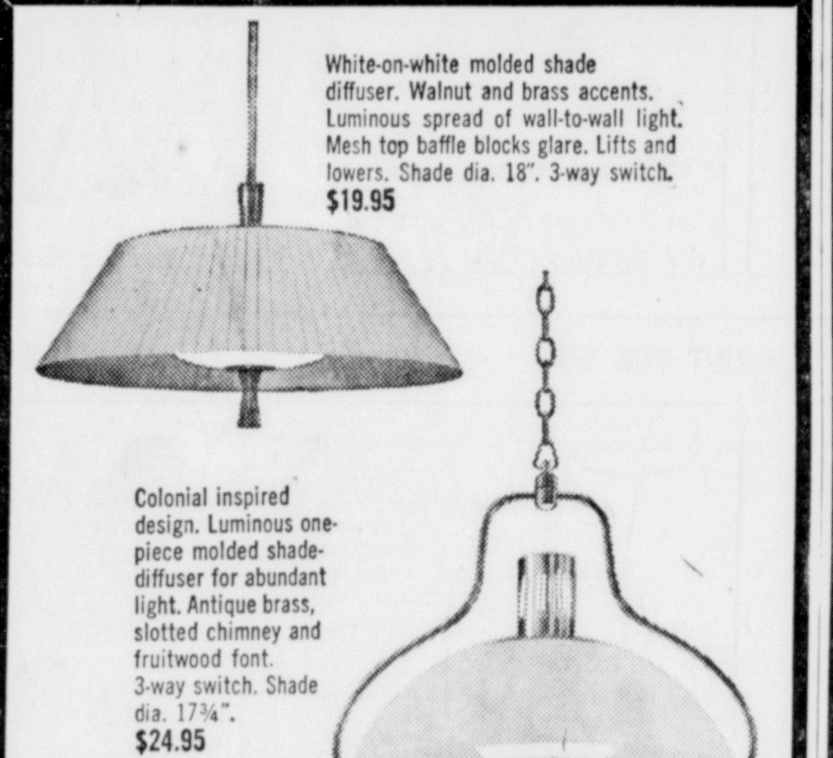

Spock told the assembled parents to "hang on to your assurance in raising children."
Gen. Douglas MacArthur took a tour of the site of the 1964-65 New York World's Fair and seemed satisfied with the progress of construction.
After being driven about the 646-acre site, MacArthur commented, "The fair will revive lagging patriotic spirit that has long been missing. America needs this shot in the arm."

Singer Nelson Eddy, 62, was reported resting comfortably at a Framingham, Mass., hospital
